THOUGHT DEAD, BURIED MINERS ARE FOUND ALIVE

Five Living Men Are Taken Out of the Tennessee Mine by the Rescuers.

ONE MAN SMOKING PIPE WHEN FOUND BY RESCUERS

Men Rescued Had Been Entombed Since Early Last Saturday Morning—Believed That Others Will Be Found Alive——Appeal Is Made For Families of Victims.

APPEAL TO ALL MAYORS FOR AID FOR SUFFERERS

Briceville, Tenn., December 11.—Mayor Thomas Watts, executive officer of Coal Creek, which is only five miles from the village of Briceville, today issued an appeal to mayors of all cities for financial aid for the mine sufferers.

His appeal reads:

"To All Mayors of the United States: There are about 125 families in Briceville suffering from the Cross Mountain coal mine disaster. Help in funds is greatly needed, and we appeal to all American citizens to help us. Funds may be sent in through Thomas Watts, mayor of Coal Creek.

"THOMAS WATTS, Mayor."

Briceville, Tenn., December 11.—Five men were taken out alive from the Cross Mountain mine tonight after all hope of saving any of the 100 or more men entombed by the explosion last Saturday morning had been abandoned.

All except one man were in good condition after sixty hours below the earth and the rescuers were so encouraged that they bent their energies anew and late tonight there were excellent prospects that more survivors would be reached before morning.

The men rescued were:

William Henderson, aged 55; Milton Henderson, aged 22, his son; Irwin Smith, aged 35; Arthur Scott, aged 34, and Dore Irish, aged 30.

All Rescued Men Married.

All of the men are married. They were found in left cross entry No. 19 and had escaped death after the explosion of Saturday morning by erecting a brattice cutting off the deadly after-damp. All were in good condition and will live. In fact the elder Henderson was so strong that he wanted to walk to his home.

H. A. Irish, aged 60, who was bossing the gang, was killed instantly by the explosion, and his body was found tonight badly burned. His son, Theodore, was the only other one of the gang's members accounted for who was injured.

Two other members strayed away and have not been located.

"Bill" Henderson, the oldest of the rescued men, came out of the mines smoking his pipe and resisted when efforts were made to carry him home on a stretcher.

"Oh, let me walk," he protested, but without avail.

His Experience in Mine.

Mr. Henderson made the following statement of his experience in the mines:

"Under my direction we bratticed up the entrance to the mine room. With out coats we fought back the after-damp that came through the cracks in the brattice and then stuck our coats and other articles of wearing apparel in the hole of the brattice. We had lights, our dinner and each of us had from a half to three-quarters of a gallon of coffee and water in our dinner pails. We remained in this room quietly for several hours burning one light and taking turns at eating. Late Saturday evening Arthur Scott and Dore Irish left the room and attmpted to make their way back and reach the entrance of the mine through the over pass. That was the last we saw of the. The next morning we made our way, the air having been purified by the fan into the entry and passed over into No. 18 endeavoring to find the way out We ran into gas and were forced to go back to room 2 in No. 19 where the air was pure. We remained there until discovered tonight. We ate the last of our food about the middle of Sunday afternoon, but still had some water left

SMITH ANSWERS REUBEN ARNOLD

Governor Brown Owes Election to People, He Says.

Campaign Manager for "Little Joe" Declares the Executive Committee Certainly Fixed No Primary Rules for Benefit of Former Governor.

"Governor Brown is indebted to the people of Georgia for his nomination and not to the state committee," declared J. R. Smith, campaign manager for "Little Joe," in a statement issued last night in answer to an interview given out by Reuben Arnold, relative to the meeting of the state executive committee today and the steps that it would take.

Mr. Smith asserts that whatever the motive or intention of the committee might have been in fixing the rules for the primary that it certainly fixed no rule for the benefit of Joe Brown. "All that Governor Brown could do was to accept the rules, although undemocratic, as laid down by the state committee.

He also calls attention to the statement of Mr. Arnold that if the 17,000 citizens who voted for Joe Brown in the general election had been disfranchised, Joe Brown would have been beaten in the primary. He says that many of them, and perhaps a majority of them, had voted with Mr. Arnold in the primary in which Hoke Smith was named.

Rube Panned Out Badly.

"My friend, Mr. Reuben Arnold, has evidently taken a nap, had a nightmare and waked up with a bad taste in his mouth," says Mr. Smith.

"I judge from the temper of his interview, given out today, that the plurality rule which was adopted by the committee did not pan out as it was evidently intended by Mr. Arnold and his committee. I want to say, notwithstanding Mr. Arnold's statement, that if Governor Brown benefited by the plurality rule that he is not indebted to

MUCH OPPOSITION TO TAFT IN UNEXPECTED QUARTERS

Southern Members of National Committee Proving Hard to Handle—Hitchcock and Taft's Man Hilles Reported in a Clash—The Committee Meets Today.

Washington, December 11.—Hostilities of an unexpected character and from an unlooked-for quarter developed today among members of the republican national committee and other prominent party leaders who are here in connection with the meeting tomorrow to fix the time and place for the presidential nomination convention next summer. Opposition to Colonel Harry S. New, of Indiana, the administration's candidate for chairman of the powerful subcommittee on convention arrangements was responsible for the ill-feeling engendered.

The situation, however, cleared considerably late in the evening. At the president's dinner to the committeemen there was no open discussion of politics. But it became known immediately after the diners had adjourned

OFF TO THE SHOW!

FORTUNE IN BIRDS IS ON DISPLAY AT THE AUDITORIUM

Over 4,000 Fowls of All Kinds Worth About $150,000 Are Here.

SHOW IS ONE OF BEST COUNTRY HAS EVER SEEN

Experts Agree That in Class and Size the Show Will Equal Any That Has Ever Been Held in This Country. There Are Three Hundred Exhibitors in All.

By far the biggest poultry show Dixie has ever seen was opened yesterday afternoon at the Auditorium-Armory under the auspices of the Southern International Poultry Association.

Upwards of 4,000 birds, representing a total value of practically $150,000, entered by more than 300 exhibitors from 23 states of the union, go to make this show not only the largest, but far away the highest in class that the south has ever before seen. The immense arena of the Auditorium, Taft Hall and all the other available space on the ground floor of the big Auditorium-Armory is filled with coops, and when the show opens at 8 o'clock this morning practically every one of these will be filled.

Because of the fact that the birds had not all arrived, the managers of the show announced during the morning Monday that the show would not reach its best until today. Throughout the day birds were arriving by the score, and, while these were cooped and placed on exhibition as rapidly as possible, it was well in the night before the last of the 4,100 fowls, which will make this the fifth largest poultry show the world has ever seen, were placed. For this reason the managers of the show advised the public not to attend until today.

In spite of this announcement, however, there was a good stream of people filing through the aisles between the thousands of coops from the time the show was officially thrown open to the public at 1 o'clock until the building was closed late at night. The attendance during the evening was especially good.

Right Among the Top.

As to the rank this show will take among those of the country, fowl experts and fanciers from every section of the country who are in attendance here are agreed. In their opinion, the show is not only one of the largest the country has ever seen, but judging from the class of birds on exhibition here, it is their opinion that awards from the Southern International Poultry Association's shows will, in the future, carry with them little if any less weight than those of any of the shows in the country. In other words, these experts believe that it will take almost as high class birds to carry off the prizes here as it will in any of the shows now being held annually in the country, not barring even those held at Madison Square Garden in New York.

Many of the fowls on exhibition not only come from the farms of the best known breeders and fanciers in the country, but represent the very finest production of these farms.

AUTOISTS GATHER FOR ORGANIZATION

State Association of Automobile Owners Is Formed.

Members Believe That Working in Conjunction With the State and City Authorities, They Will Secure Just Laws Governing Traffic.

Prominent automobile owners at a meeting held in the Transportation Club yesterday afternoon decided to form an organization, to be known as the "Association of Automobile Owners of the State of Georgia."

G. W. Hanson, temporary chairman of this meeting, appointed Walter P. Andrews as chairman of a committee of seven to draft the constitution and by-laws to be presented at a mass meeting of the automobile owners of the state on January 2. The place and hour of the gathering will be announced later.

The idea of forming an association of automobile owners was heartily indorsed by those present.

Benefits of Organization.

A number of speakers, including F. J. Merriam, Walter P. Andrews, Joseph Rhodes, George Fauss, R. L. Cooney, Edward Durant, M. L. Petty, H. G. Moore, Dr. Robin Adair and others, gave their views as to the different undertakings that could be made a part of the purpose of the organization which would effect incalculable benefit to the members of the association.

It was the consensus of opinion that this body, working in conjunction with the state and city authorities, would be able to have adopted just and acceptable laws and regulations governing automobile traffic.

A social feature in connection with the organization was discussed, but no definite plan to embody this was outlined outside of there being arrangements made for club privileges in the various towns and cities of the state.

Strict Regulations for Drivers.

It was discussed at some length that the authorities be urged to adopt stricter regulations in the granting of drivers' license, and that an effort be made to keep the driving of cars out of the hands of irresponsible and reckless drivers whenever possible. Such parties, it was maintained, besides being a menace to the public, worked a hardship on the motorists as a whole, and are largely responsible for the animosity existing in some quarters towards automobiles.

A telegram was read from the Macon Automobile Association stating that they were heartily in favor of a state association, and that the members of that body would make application as a whole as soon as the association was formed. Prominent motorists from Savannah, Griffin, Augusta, Americus, Albany, Rome and other cities were quoted to the extent that they strongly favored a state association and could be counted on for applications to memberships.

BURGLARS WIN ON FIFTH TRIAL

Plunder Simmons' Home of Valuables Worth $1,200.

Four Times They Tried at Night and Were Thwarted by H. L. Simmons—Then They Came in the Daytime and Job Was Easy.

Evidently the home of H. L. Simmons, at 54 Spring street, was doomed to be plundered, for after making four unsuccessful attempts at robbery, burglars yesterday afternoon forced an entrance while the occupants were away, and secured diamonds and jewelry valued at over $1,200.

Detectives from headquarters have been put to work on the case, and are working on every available clue in order to run down the intruders before they burglarize more homes in that vicinity.

During the past ten days, five visits were paid by burglars to this residence. All but that of Monday were made during the night, and the efforts were thwarted by Mr. Simmons, who put the intruders to rout.

Monday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock, while every occupant of the house was up town, one or more robbers forced an entrance through a window to the building, and after ransacking several rooms, finally plundered a chiffonier in the room of Mrs. Ida Coates, who resides with Mr. and Mrs. Simmons, securing there diamonds, watches and other valuables amounting to $1,200. Nothing else was found missing.

Through descriptions given by Mr. Simmons secured when he saw two of the burglars on one of their previous attempts, the detectives hope to nab the criminals.

DYNAMITE EVIDENCE GIVEN TO GOVERNMENT

Alleged the Evidence Was Surrendered by Officials of the Iron Workers' Union.

Indianapolis, Ind., December 11.—That one or more officials of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Workers are surrendering voluntarily to the government information needed in the investigation of an alleged nation-wide dynamiting conspiracy against structural iron contractors who maintain the "open shop" was stated tonight by representatives of the National Erectors' Association.

Without resistance, letters and records have been conveyed by detectives engaged by the erectors' association from the headquarters of the Iron Workers' Association in this city to the offices of the United States District attorney, it was announced.

"No promises of immunity to men suspected of complicity in the dynamiting conspiracy have been made by the government," declared District Attorney Charles W. Miller.

"I have got the evidence from the office of the Iron Workers' Association," said Detective Robert Foster, of the erectors' association, "but I will not say who turned it over to me."

In the face of the announcement of the erectors' association's representatives, Herbert S. Hockin, secretary of the Iron Workers' Association, flatly denied tonight that any papers had been taken from his office.

JUROR ESCAPES IN HYDE TRIAL

And It's Probable Court Will Declare Mistrial.

Made Desperate by Sight of His Children, Juror Waldron Breaks From Jury Room and Flees—Some Think Waldron Has Committed Suicide.

Kansas City, Mo., December 11.—A mistrial of the second hearing of Dr. B. Clarke Hyde, charged with killing Colonel Thomas H. Swope, appears probable tonight.

Made desperate by the sight of two of his children, from whom he had been separated for six weeks, in the courtroom last Saturday, Harry Waldron, one of the jurors, escaped from the jury's hotel quarters early today. While a guard slept, Waldron pried open a nailed transom, crawled through the opening, tiptoed to a fire escape and leaped fifteen feet to freedom. The entire city police force and a dozen deputies from the county marshal's office have searched in vain for him since his absence was noted near daybreak.

If Waldron is not found by tomorrow night, the eleven remaining jurors will be discharged, Judge Porterfield said today. Or if the missing man is found and he cannot prove that he has not discussed the case during his absence the same action will be taken. Should he return in good health and swear that he has talked of the trial to no one and the court is satisfied with his story the trial will proceed.

Feared Missing Juror Is Dead.

Fear that Waldron has killed himself is growing. He was in a highly agitated state when last seen on Sunday night as, indeed, he had been almost every day since he was chosen a juror.

He objected to serving when he was first selected, saying his dairy interests would not permit his absence. Later he was taken ill and begged piteously for his wife and children. After that his wife wrote him daily and he seemed better contented.

Saturday his children went into the courtroom to see him. From his seat in the jury box he smiled and nodded. When court adjourned he grasped them in his arms and kissed and fondled them. Yesterday was Sunday and a dull day for the jury. Some of the jurors played games and other read. But Waldron sat alone, playing his old and battered violin.

"Home, sweet, home," was his favorite tune. He played it repeatedly. It was on his lips when he retired early this morning.

Even if Waldron's escape should result in a mistrial, which would mean a loss of thousands of dollars to the county, no severe punishment could be inflicted upon him. He is in contempt of court but the maximum penalty for this offense is but a fine of $50, or a ten days' jail sentence.

Probably Deranged by Worry.

Scores of theories regarding the disappearance were offered, but the suggestion of suicide was most generally accepted. Officers think worry about his family may have temporarily deranged him.

Prosecutor Conkling issued a statement intimating Waldron had been induced to escape. Attorneys for Dr. Hyde gave out a written statement deploring the incident and setting forth that they had always urged a speedy trial. They were especially emphatic in denying the prosecutor's insinuations.

The eleven jurors rested all day. Just before court adjourned tonight they were led to the jury box and the roll called. Waldron's name was called twice.

Judge Porterfield addressed the jury, expressing his regret at Waldron's absence and warning them that the incident must in no way affect their judgment of the case. When the court sent the jury to the hotel for the night they were disappointed. They thought they would be discharged.

DOUGLAS VOTERS FOR CONVENTION

Demand a Platform in Accordance With Joe Brown Principles.

Resolutions Are Passed at Mass Meeting—Delegates Named in Anticipation of Convention—Wilcox Also Names Delegates.

Douglasville, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—Resolutions requesting the democratic state executive committee to call a state convention to nominate the governor were passed this noon at a mass meeting in the courthouse attended by about 350 of Douglas county's prominent farmers and business men.

The resolutions also expressed the demand that at such convention a new platform be adopted or that ex-Governor Smith's platform be so modified as to make it concur with the principles for which Joseph M. Brown is known to stand.

Delegates to this convention were also elected.

The contention of The Atlanta Journal that a nominating convention under the circumstances was without precedent; that H. D. McDaniel was not so nominated when he succeeded to the unexpired term of Governor A. H. Stephens, was denounced as untrue.

Wilcox Delegates Named.

Abbeville, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—In accordance with the old custom of democratic primaries the chairman and secretary of the democratic executive committee of this county met at the courthouse on December 8 and consolidated the vote of the county in the primary held in the county December 7 and appointed the following delegates to the state convention: L. H. Glenn and M. B. Cannon.

Taft Names Andrews.

Washington, December 11.—President Taft today sent to the senate the nomination of Commander Philip Andrews, to be chief of the bureau of navigation in the navy department, succeeding Rear Admiral R. F. Nicholson, who will assume command of the Asiatic squadron. The latter asked to be relieved as chief of the bureau, but friends in congress objected to the transfer, saying it had practically been forced by Secretary Meyer. To the president, however, Admiral Nicholson announced that he was entirely content.

Congress to Quit for Christmas

Washington, December 11.—An adjournment of congress Thursday, December 21, until Wednesday, January 3, was agreed upon in the house today. Tariff legislation will be deferred until after the Christmas recess.

ASK COMMITTEE FOR POPULAR VOTE

Harris Will Seek Direct Vote on Presidential Candidates.

Party Body Will Officially Declare Jos. M. Brown Nominee for Governor and H. M. Stanley for Commissioner of Commerce and Labor.

The state democratic executive committee, which meets in the senate chamber today at noon to declare Joseph M. Brown the nominee of the democratic party for the office of governor of Georgia, will be asked for a primary to give the people of the state an opportunity to express their preference for a presidential candidate.

The request for a primary will be made by State Senator W. J. Harris, of Cedartown, and he will offer the suggestion that the primary be held on the date of the state election on January 10, when the result of last Thursday's primary is confirmed.

Senator's Statement.

In regard to the suggestion which he will make along this line to the committee Senator Harris said:

"I am going in person before the state committee and make respectful demand for a primary in which to obtain an expression from the democrats of Georgia on whom they want to support for president next year. I shall ask that they be permitted to vote directly for those most prominently mentioned as candidates for the nomination, also on delegates to represent them and express their voice in the national convention. This would mean that the ballots would contain the names of Woodrow Wilson, Governor Harmon, Champ Clark, Oscar Underwood and such others as may be considered as serious probabilities. Then each congressional district would elect two individual delegates to the national convention and four would be chosen from the state-at-large. These would get their instructions direct from the voters. The presidential candidate receiving the highest number would be first voted for; that is the delegates would support him as long as he was in the running; the one receiving the next highest would be second choice, and so on.

"The plan I have outlined would be fair and impartial to everyone.

"As for the date of the primary, I make, and will offer, only a suggestion—that is that it be held on the day of the state election to confirm last Thursday's primary. I make this because that I think will be best for getting out a reasonably large vote and would entail no expense, as the managers and clerks will be paid anyway. However, should another date be preferred, or should the details be varied, I shall raise no objection, so long as all is fair and impartial.

Voters to Get Chance.

"All that I want—and emphasize it—is that the voters be given a chance to express themselves on the important question of naming a president. It will be foolish for anyone to contend that it is impracticable. Five states, by law, now require the holding of presidential primaries. Others are held by volition of the party au-

Experience Gained While In The Drug Business

I have been troubled more or less in the last five years with kidney trouble and from the experience I gained while in the drug business and from different cases where I have sold Swamp-Root with perfect satisfaction to those who purchased it, and as I never had a single complaint regarding the medicine while I was in business, I was in a position to know that it was a great preparation and it did not fail me when I used it myself. It has certainly afforded me great relief at all times that my kidneys have troubled me and I would not be without it. I always recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to my friends as I believe it to be a medicine of great curative value in the diseases for which you recommend it.

Sincerely,
D. A. KOONCE,

man-Pierce farm, of Indianapolis, is here with a coop of 59 "Reds," which he values at slightly more than $15,000. The farm which Mr. Pierce represents here is one of international reputation and the birds which he has entered in the show the very pick of the farm's output. For one cock alone in this pen Mr. Pierce has several times refused $2,500.

There will be upwards of 30 pens of Rhode Island Reds exhibited in the show, which is the second largest number ever on display in any one show. There is also on exhibition a coop of Rhode Island Whites, a most unusual variety of bird.

Prize Awards Today.

Several of the foruteen judges who are to pass on the merits of the birds in the show reached the city yesterday and several others last night. The last of them are expected in early this morning and will begin work at once.

Without exception, these officials are prominently connected with the best known poultry farms in the country, and those in position to know state that there can be no question but that the best birds will be given the highest awards. John W. Foley, of Royersford, Pa.; George Ewald, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Mrs. L. H. Graves, of Southbridge, Mass.; Mrs. Florence Forbes, of New Decatur, Ala.; D. M. Owen, of Athens, Tenn., and Dr. J. D. Reynolds, of Marietta, are among the judges who had reached the city Monday afternoon.

The judges will begin their work when the show opens this morning, and as fast as winners in the different classes are decided upon, prize awards will be made. Too, cages containing prize-winning birds will be labeled—this for the benefit of the general public. To the average layman, it is pointed out, there is little difference between a prize-winner in a certain class and an ordinary bird of the same kind. After the coops have been marked with the winners, however, all who visit the show can obtain an accurate idea of just what it takes to constitute a perfect specimen of a certain variety.

Today's Program.

The show will really get well under way for the first time this morning. Every coop and fowl will be in place when the show is opened at 8 o'clock and everything in just the shape it will remain throughout the remainder of the week.

Shortly after the show opens, H. C. Pierce, a federal government expert on the commercial side of the poultry business, will give his first lecture, accompanied by practical demonstrations. He will give between three and five of these talks and demonstrations daily while the show is in progress.

He will talk on and demonstrate the proper method of dressing and packing poultry for shipment and sale, and of the proper method of preserving and packing eggs. His demonstrations will be practical throughout, and his work is looked upon by the officials of the show as one of the distinct features.

Professor H. A. Morgan will also talk on this phase of the poultry business.

Judging from the interest displayed in the show up to this time, promoters and officials of the show feel that there can be no question but that the show will be easily the most successful ever held in the south. From the point of attendance, it is believed, all records for southern shows will be easily broken, especially in view of the fact that the admission price has been placed so low. This, the officials point out, was done because of their desire to make the show educational to a large extent, and they felt that every encouragement should be offered every one to attend.

GREAT DURBAR AT DELHI TODAY

George and Mary to Receive Homage of Indian Subjects.

Their Majesties Will Show Themselves in Coronation Robes and Crowns to Great Multitude—Scene of Durbar Camp One of Splendor.

Delhi, December 11.—The Great Durbar tomorrow to celebrate the accession of King George as emperor of India will far outshine the coronation Durbar in 1903, when King Edward was proclaimed. There will be a public holiday throughout India, and the royal proclamation will be read in every town and village. Already King George and Queen Mary have taken part in many functions, and have received the homage of the princes. Delhi is overrun with visitors from all lands, and it is expected the magnificent spectacle will be viewed by hundreds of thousands.

In the Durbar of 1903 the emperor and empress were represented by the duke and duchess of Connaught. About 100 ruling chiefs were in attendance, and the visitors were estimated at something less than 200,000. This year the personal attendance of the king-emperor and queen-empress attracted vast crowds, while the ruling chiefs have gathered from every quarter of India.

The Durbar Camp.

The Durbar camp is a vast canvas city, covering about 25 square miles. It is lighted by electricity, served by a perfect water supply, and provided with excellent roads and a special railway system. Chief of all stands out the emperor's central camp. The huge tent in which both the investiture and the reception will be held is on Grand avenue. This tent is capable of seating 3,000 persons, and is decorated in blue, white and gold. Behind is the king's state dining tent, hung with blue, where 160 guests will attend the state banquet tomorrow evening. Their majesties' private tents are to the right, and the viceroy has a somewhat similar encampment to the left.

About 150 ruling princes are here, their camps being in close proximity to that of the king. The historic ridge in the evening presents a truly wonderful sight. As far as eye can reach twinkle myriads of electric lights which disclose a picture of white and gold, and here and there splashes of color.

The Royal Procession.

King George will arrive tomorrow at the center of the great plain about three miles from his camp, for the Durbar in state procession and will proceed half way around an enormous banked arena, in which will be assembled not less than 80,000 spectators. From there he will go to a smaller amphitheater accommodating 12,000 persons. These will comprise the Indian chiefs, governors and lieutenant governors, the imperial and provincial councils, with all the leading officials, nobility and gentry of India.

After receiving the homage of the chiefs on a special dais under a purple canopy, their majesties will proceed to a marble dais surmounted by a golden dome and will show themselves in their coronation robes and crowns to the assembled multitude. Twenty thousand troops with heralds and massed bands will surround the dais.

Cost of the Cranberry Sauce.

Indignant protests were made by certain prominent growers in New Jersey after the publication in The Survey of the results of an investigation made last year for the national child labor committee into the work and living conditions of Italian cranberry pickers in that state. A leading newspaper took up the cudgels for the growers. New Jersey had been libeled; evils had been exaggerated; conditions were misrepresented.

Upon the return of the brief cranberry picking season this year, bringing the usual migration of great numbers of families from the cities to the bogs, a new and more thorough investigation was undertaken by the organization which began it last year. This has just been completed. Agents visited the cranberry growing sections of Massachusetts and covered most of the larger plantations of New Jersey. In general, it may be said that all the essential facts of unrestricted child employment, loss of several weeks' schooling to thousands of children, an un-American system of labor under a padrone, and the crowded and unsanitary camps reported last year were this year again found to be the rule rather than the exception. Young children were found working long hours under a padrone, in Massachusetts as in New Jersey, and families were crowded into unsanitary shacks. However, as a much greater proportion of the harvesting in Massachusetts is done by means of "scoops" operated largely by Portuguese men, the evil of family migration and child and woman labor were found to be not as extensive as in New Jersey, where nearly all the picking is done by hand. This year, in the latter state, there was somewhat less Sunday work, due to a smaller crop. Otherwise the situation has not improved, except in the housing conditions on one bog.

TOBACCO TRUST DECREE WILL NOT BE REVIEWED

Washington, December 11.—In refusing today the request of the leaf tobacco board of trade of New York to review the decree of the United States circuit court for southern New York, which approved the reorganization plan of the "tobacco trust," three reasons were assigned by the supreme court of the United States. These reasons, which were set forth by Chief Justice White, were:

"One who is not a party to a record and judgment is not entitled to appeal therefrom.

"The action of the court below in refusing to permit the movers to become parties to the record is not susceptible of being reviewed by this court on appeal, or indirectly under the circumstances here disclosed, by the writ of mandamus.

"The merely general nature and character of the interest which the movers alleged they have in the papers here filed is not in any event of such a character as to authorize them in this proceeding to assail the action of the court below."

In the senate a bill was introduced today by Mr. Cummins granting to the independent tobacco companies the right to appeal to the supreme court from the New York decree. The bill gives as the reason for review a desire to ascertain whether the circuit court's decree is in conformity with the supreme court's decision in the tobacco case. Mr. Cummins will speak on his bill next Wednesday.

MEXICO IN GRIP OF REBELLION

Rebels Are Busy in Several States—Madero Unable to Check Disorder.

Mexico City, December 11.—Within the past forty-eight hours four small towns in the state of Puebla have joined in the rebellion against the central government. Four haciendas have been sacked by the insurrectionists.

This activity in the states of Morelos and Tlaxcala, places within a hundred miles south of the capital, a center of disaffection. Additional troops have been sent to Puebla in an effort to restore order, but the maintenance of a big army on the northern frontier and the campaign being waged against small bands of rebels in many other states, as well as the more important action in Yucatan, has made it difficult for the government to send a strong force into the region south of the capital. Tonight reports from Vera Cruz are that a new band of rebels has begun operations in that state, raiding haciendas and two villages.

Efforts of the government agents to locate General Reyes have been without success.

CZAR SUSPECTS ALL AMERICANS

Alleged That Russia's Discrimination Has Not Been Confined to Jews.

Washington, December 11.—Those who appeared today before the house committee on foreign affairs urging abrogation of the 1832 treaty between the United States and Russia, declared that the czar's alleged discrimination against Americans had not been confined to Jews alone, but were extended to include Catholic priests, Protestant ministers and American missionaries.

Louis Marshall, of New York, counsel for the Jews, cited the case of Bishop Hoban, of Scranton, Pa., who, he said, was denied a two days' sojourn in Russia, although armed with a passport from the state department. He said Oscar Hammerstein, the American impressario, was not allowed to enter Russia to engage talent.

Jacob Schiff, the New York banker, showed a letter received from Elihu Root when the latter was secretary of state, saying no satisfaction could be obtained from Russia. Oscar Straus, former ambassador to Turkey and a member of the Roosevelt cabinet, denied any personal knowledge that American interests were influencing the state department in its treatment of the question.

Samuel Dorf, representing B'rith Abraham; Rabbi Solomon Foster, of Cincinnati, secretary of the American Rabbis Association; William G. McAdoo, chairman, and Bernard Molsn, secretary of the national citizens association; Abraham I. Elkus, a regent of the New York state university, and Leon Sanders, representing the Jewish National Fraternal congress, were speakers. The committee will continue hearings tomorrow.

Mayor Sulzberger, of Philadelphia, referred sarcastically to the Russian legislative system. He said the only loss to the United States by the abrogation of the treaty might be the 1 per cent of American foreign commerce.

Louis Marshall declared that conditions in Russia were worse than ever before and that Jews could not be persecuted more.

Senator Culberson and others will be heard by the senate committee on foreign relations on Wednesday in support of the Culberson resolution to abrogate the treaty.

MUST STAND 110 SUITS.

Prosecution in Virginia Mine Disaster Not Restrained.

Montgomery, Ala., December 11.—As the result of a decision of the supreme court today in overruling applications of the Southern Steel Company, of Birmingham, for a rehearing of the case in which the Jefferson chancery court declined to restrain prosecution in connection with the Virginia mine disaster, 110 suits will probably be filed against the company at once for damages as the result of this catastrophe.

Following the mine disaster of 1905, suits fell thick and fast, filed by relatives of those killed or injured in the mine. The steel company pleaded a multiplicity of suits in asking for a blanket injunction.

Child Labor Bureau Opposed.

Washington, December 11.—Vigorous protest that the bill creating a child labor bureau in the department of commerce and labor was unnecessary interference with the home was made today when that measure was called up in the senate by Mr. Borah, of Idaho. Senators Bailey and Heyburn objected. Mr. Bailey contended the present system had produced the greatest race of people in the world's history and there was no need of invoking the government's aid. Mr. Heyburn declared it means the establishment of nurseries throughout the country to determine the wisdom of parents.

SECRETS BARED BY CHORUS GIRL

Lillian Graham, Who Shot Millionaire Stokes, on Stand.

Cross-Examined, the Show Girl Is Forced to Tell Details of Her Intimacy With Stokes. Alleges Stokes Held Her a Prisoner on His Farm.

New York, December 11.—When Lillian Graham, show girl defendant, who, with Ethel Conrad, is accused of shooting W. E. D. Stokes, took the stand today for cross-examination Mr. Buckner, the assistant district attorney, cautioned her to "be just as composed as you can under the circumstances."

Then the prosecutor tried to get the girl to admit she's 27 or 28 years old, instead of 23, as she claims. She remained calm, refusing to allow herself to become entangled in conflicting answers, then the prosecutor dropped the point.

Under questioning Miss Graham admitted she knew when she went to the Ansonia in December, 1906, that Stokes had been divorced here, but said she did not know that under the laws of New York there is only one cause for divorce.

She admitted, also, that she knew Stokes had no intention of marrying again, as he had written to her that "having failed to make one woman happy, he did not intend to try with another."

Miss Graham said, however, that their acquaintance at that time was only friendship with no thought of marriage.

"Old Divorcee and Murderer."

The prosecutor reverted to the Al Adams story. Last week Miss Graham said she was afraid of Stokes at the time she shot him because her sister, Mrs. Andrews, had told2her she believed Stokes had murdered the former "policy king." A coroner's jury found that Adams was a suicide.

Miss Graham admitted that her sister had not told her this story until some time after her acquaintance with Stokes began.

"Did Mrs. Andrews raise any objections to your running around with this old divorcee and murderer?" asked the prosecutor sarcastically.

"No."

"In fact, haven't you brought this matter up for the purpose of blackening Mr. Stokes' character?"

To this Miss Graham's attorney objected. The witness declared that nobody had told her what kind of a man Stokes was.

"Didn't you know of his relations with women?"

"No."

The Girl and Stokes' Pay Roll.

"Didn't you want to get on his pay roll?"

"No, sir."

The prosecutor's answer to these negatives was to read several of the girl's letters in which she invited Stokes to her apartments and expressed disappointment over his failure to accept former invitations.

"Why didn't you stop writing and telephoning to him, when he continued to 'disappoint' you in this way?"

"Because," replied Miss Graham, "he always gave a very good excuse."

Last week Miss Graham testified that Stokes never had made full return for $1,700 which she had given him to invest for her early in their acquaintance. Today she said the money had been given her by her sister, Mrs. Singleton.

"Were these letters written before or after you gave him the money?" inquired a juror.

"After," she answered.

The prosecution disputed this and exhibited several letters in support of its contention.

She Called Stokes "Dearie."

In February, 1907, Miss Graham wrote Stokes the "farewell" letter in which she addressed him as "Dearie," told him she never expected to see him again, and closed "to the only man I ever loved."

Mr. Buckner re-read this letter today, then asked her:

"If you were a young, pure girl of 18 or 19, why did you write such a letter as this? What could you hope to gain from a man in Stokes' position?"

"Well," replied Miss Graham, "he wrote me a good many letters and I saw him frequently."

The witness said she "thought a good deal" of Stokes.

The prosecutor asked the girl what Stokes meant by several expressions he used in his letters, but her usual reply was that she was too young and inexperienced to understand.

The letter introduced by the prosecution in which Miss Graham released Stokes from any responsibility for what happened during her visit to his farm near Lexington, Ky., was reintroduced.

Said Stokes Held Her Prisoner.

Miss Graham declared that Stokes held her a prisoner on his farm and forced her to write the letter before he would let her go. Last week she asserted that she wrote it when Stokes threatened that he would wire her brother-in-law, Mr. Singleton, in California, unless she did so. Later, she said, Stokes assured her he had destroyed this letter. Nevertheless, asserted the girl, when they returned to New York Stokes went down on his knees and begged her not to tell her relatives.

"Why did you keep quiet as he asked then?"

"Because I felt sorry for him. He begged me not to tell on account of his boy."

Miss Graham agreed with the prosecutor that the event at "Lexington" was the most terrible moment of her life. Then the prosecutor sprang a surprise in the shape of letters exchanged between the show girl and Stokes prior to her Lexington visit. Once, Stokes said, he'd just received a "consignment of forty Chicago widows."

To "Dear Willie Stokes."

Then a letter was read which bore on the disputed point of whether Stokes was pursued or pursuer. It read:

"Dear Willie Stokes: I do want you; and if you will be devoted to me alone I promise not to make any trouble.

(Signed) "LILLIAN."

There was a dispute over a letter in which Lillian exonerated Stokes from blame for some act of his. The prosecutor tried to prove this act referred to the Lexington episode. Lillian declared it bore only on the $1,200 which she had given Stokes to keep for her.

Liability Law Upheld.

Washington, December 11.—The constitutionality of the employers' liability law of Arkansas today was upheld by the supreme court of the United States. The point arose in a suit by George H. Ramsey, an employee of the Aluminum Company of America, against that company, for personal injuries alleged to have been received by reason of the negligence of a fellow servant.

PRIEST WILL TRAIN ANT TO FIGHT BOLL WEEVIL

New Orleans, La., December 11.—After an experiment along practical lines, Father Albert Biever, a Jesuit scientist of this city, has announced that in his opinion the Argentine ant, a Louisiana pest and despair of housewives, is the south's best antidote for the boll weevil. It was found that the ant will destroy the young weevils and eggs, but the assault on a mature weevil is another matter. The scientist is firmly of the opinion that in time the ant will bolster up sufficient courage to attack a grown-up weevil, but not until he is "educated" up to it.

"I believe that these ants will finally exterminate the boll weevil," said Father Biever. "They destroy all other ants by attacking the nests and destroying the eggs. They will treat the weevil similarly."

Further experiments are to be made by the scientist.

'EVERYTHING'S EXTRA' ON EXTRA FARE TRAIN

Extra Fine Compartments and Drawing Rooms With Extra Conveniences Will Mark Santa Fe's New "De Luxe" to the West.

MAID PROVIDED FOR WOMEN; MANICURIST FOR THE MEN

Extra fast, extra fine and extra fare. This alliterative slogan refers to the latest luxury and newest novelty. Something that you and I want, and will insist on using, if our bank account is right.

It isn't an aeroplane nor an auto—though it cuts several holes into the atmosphere. It is just a railroad train, but absolutely the finest thing on wheels. The officials of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway say so. They ought to know.

This train of the superlatives is called "Santa Fe De Luxe." Pronounce the name any way you wish—Santa Fay or Santa Fee—duh Lewks or de Luks. But don't forget that it is just what it claims to be, a train of luxury.

Once a week, between Chicago and Los Angeles, beginning December 12, is this winter's initial schedule.

The "De Luxe" has been designed to carry passengers who are "in a hurry," who demand the comforts and want the luxuries, who like to be a "bit exclusive, y' know," and—incidentally—whose wallets contain sufficient of the "yellow back stuff" to pay the price.

Mr. Traveler and his wife—if she's along—can sit peacefully at ease upon the new-fangled seats in their all-drawing room or compartment Pullmans, breathing cool, washed air. Indolently they can push the button for anything from a barber or a manicurist to a postage stamp. The latter, whether of the 1 or the 15-cent denomination, are to be "given away free."

Other features of the "De Luxe" are to be a ladies' maid, valet service, bathing facilities, vacuum cleaner; a stenographer, whose services are free; daily market and news reports on the dining tables, in neatly printed form; flowers for the women, and so on, indefinitely, so the officials insist.

The movement of the Santa Fe in establishing an extra fare train between Chicago and Los Angeles is a new departure so far as roads West are concerned. No other system as yet is able to boast of a de luxe accommodation—Chicago to the Pacific coast.

Westbound, the train will leave Chicago Tuesdays at 8 a. m. It will arrive in Los Angeles at 9 a. m. on the third morning out. Eastbound, it will leave Los Angeles at 6 p. m., arriving in Chicago at 11 a. m., after passing sixty-three hours en route. The same time will be made in the west-going trip. According to Santa Fe officials the record is made possible by the system of double tracking the road has put in more than half-way to the coast.

There is no finer accommodation on the rails of the world today. We have profited by the experience of Eastern roads with their de luxe trains, embodying all their good features and eliminating the ordinary ones.

The extra fare to be charged on the new train is $25 from Chicago, Kansas City or anywhere in Colorado to Los Angeles. Dining car service is to be entirely a la carte. The Santa Fe people boast that the meals will be "by Fred Harvey," which, they declare, is enough in itself.

ELECTION BULLETINS PLAIN AS PRINT, DUE TO A NEW PROCESS

Atlantans and people from all Georgia who saw The Constitution's stereopticon returns of the election Thursday night marveled at the clearness of the bulletins as they were flashed, and the fact that a print was being used instead of penmanship.

An entirely new process was being used, and to this process is due the fact that the bulletins could be read for blocks.

The process is patented by the Smith Premier Typewriter Company, and was being used for the first time in Atlanta. Instead of the old method of having the bulletins written with pen and ink on glass slides, and then flashed, the results were typewritten on celluloid film and then sent to the stereopticon. In this way every bulletin was as plain as print can be.

The service was furnished The Constitution by the Smith Premier people through T. A. Fulgham, the manager of the Atlanta branch.

MERCURY CLIMBS UP TUBE TO 71

Just a Little Cooler and a Few Showers Predicted for Today.

Just a little cooler and a few showers during the day is the prediction of Forecaster von Herrman for Tuesday. Monday was almost a summer day, the mercury registering 71 before the day was over. In spite of the forecast of rain none fell and though Atlanta is far behind in average annual rainfall no one was sorry.

"When a debutante visits five dances

ALWAYS MAKE A NOISE WHEN YOU CALL.

in one week she is naturally tired on Sunday, but unfortunately, or fortunately, according to the viewpoint, Sunday is calling day," said the Gopher as he donned his smoking jacket after a strenuous day.

"A few Sundays ago I happened to be calling upon a 'bud' and several others were also there. This 'bud' was as attractive as they make 'em and is as entertaining and refreshing as rain on a desert, but she was tired. One of the visiting men had been there for some time but during his visit remained decidedly unobtrusive. A new batch of callers arrived. The retiring young gentleman decided then was a good time to depart. Getting his hat and coat he re-entered the sitting room just behind the last of the new arrivals. He offered his hand in au revoir. With a beaming smile the debutante grasped his out-steretched palm: 'Why, how do you do? I am so glad to see you.' (Curtain.)"

COTTON SWINDLE LAID TO DYESS

Alleged That Man Held by the Savannah Police Victimized Many Farmers.

Savannah, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—Charged by the Augusta police with swindling Georgia farmers, J. W. Dyess, of Coffee county, is held by the Savannah police. He denies that he is the man sought, although he was identified tonight by W. L. Hughes, of Eldora.

It is claimed that under several aliases Dyess represented himself as an agent of Parker & Grogan, cotton brokers of Augusta, and purchased cotton in the country. He paid for the cotton, it is alleged, with drafts on the Augusta firm and then negotiated the bills of lading that he received when the cotton was turned over to the railroads by him.

According to the Savannah police, both cotton growers and factories have been recently swindled by one or more men who have negotiated bills of lading that had been secured by means of fraud. Several Savannah brokers who were victimized saw Dyess in the police station but declared he was not the man that swindled them.

The Eldora planter who says Dyess is the man who represented himself as an agent of Parker & Grogan declares he cannot be mistaken in his identification. Dyess insists, however, that he will be able to show a clean slate at the show down.

Officers from Augusta are expected to come for the Coffee county man tomorrow.

SOUTHERN PUTS ON SCRIP BOOK

This Is in Addition to Present Mileage Arrangement.

On January 7, 1912, certain of the prominent southeastern railroads will place on sale at their principal ticket offices a form of transportation order, designated "interchangeable penny scrip books," which will be honored by practically all the railroads in the southeast.

Each book will contain at time of sale 2,500 coupons of the face value of 1 cent each, or $25 in the aggregate, but will be sold for $20. The coupons of each book, when attached to the cover and contract thereof and presented to ticket agents by the original purchaser, will be accepted in the purchase of transportation between stations in the southeast for his own use at the rate and under the regulations set forth in the tariff governing the sale and use of this form of transportation order.

The Southern Railway Company will sell and honor these scrip books in addition to the present 2-cent per mile interchangeable mileage tickets of forms Z and ZZ, which the Southern railway has had on sale for the past several years, thus making no change in the existing forms and rates of interchangeable mileage books by the Southern railway, the scrip book arrangement simply being, as far as the Southern railway is concerned, an additional transportation facility.

12 HOLY ROLLERS IN MACON CHURCH

Inspired by the Sermon, They "Talk With Tongues" and Shock Congregation.

Macon, Ga., December 11.—(Special.) Despite efforts to keep the facts a secret, it developed today that a mild sensation was created yesterday morning during the sermon of Rev. R. E. Douglas, the pastor, at the First Presbyterian church, when a delegation of ten or twelve members of the "Holy Roller" sect, comprising some well-known ladies and gentlemen, began to "talk with tongues" and make gesticulations peculiar to their own form of worship. The pastor sought not to recognize the interruptions, and proceeded with his sermon, but members of the orthodox congregation were aghast at the spectacle.

The "Holy Rollers" attended the service in a body and occupied seats in a front pew. Their manifestations are attributed to religious fervor, induced by the pastor's eloquent remarks.

Murder Trials Postponed.

Macon, Ga., December 11.—(Special.) On account of the physical inability of Solicitor W. J. Grace to prosecute cases involving arduous work, the numerous murder trials scheduled for this term of the court have been postponed until the February term. The slot machine and gambling cases will also go over to the next term.

Publicity Bureau Formed.

Macon, Ga., December 11.—(Special.) A publicity bureau for the annual general Confederate veterans' reunion, which will be held in Macon May 7 to 9, 1912, was established today, with McQueen Smith, a Mobile newspaper man, in charge. It is intended that feature news stories written by him shall be furnished every paper in the south for gratuitous publication.

To Probe Bibb Primary.

Macon, Ga., December 11.—(Special.) The grand jury today resumed its criminal investigations, and, incidentally, set on foot an investigation of the recent primary in Bibb county. There is no charge that the election was improperly conducted, but the grand jury simply wishes to examine the ballot boxes and voting lists in order to definitely ascertain if everything was in due form.

BOY CORN GROWERS OF SOUTH GUESTS OF THE GOVERNMENT

Washington, December 11.—Twenty-one boys from the southern states, who won prizes this year for raising banner crops of corn, arrived here today and will spend the rest of the week taking in the sights of the national capital, one of the rewards of their efforts.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson tomorrow will present each boy a diploma in recognition of the good work done by them in the advancement of agriculture. They also will be presented to President Taft.

Agricultural department officials in charge of the farm demonstration work are highly pleased with the result of this year's work by the Boys' Clubs. Both in quantity of corn raised and in cheapness of production it has been by far the best year since the idea was inaugurated three years ago. They point to the fact that six of the boys now here raised more than 200 bushels on their acre of land, whereas last year this was done by only one boy. The average production among the twenty-one boys is about 175 bushels per acre.

Bennie Beeson, 11 years old, of Monticello, Miss., who grew 227 and a fraction bushels on his acre at a cost of 14 cents per bushel, is the leading prize winner, having come within a bushel of the best previous record. In cheapness of cost, Junius Hill, of Alabama, comes first, his 212 bushels having been raised at an average cost of only 8½ cents a bushel.

"The most interesting feature of this year's corn work which has spread like wild fire throughout the entire south," said Professor Martin today, who will have charge of the boys during their stay here, "is the extremely low cost of production shown by them, and we are much pleased with this, for one of the things on which Dr. Knapp, who started the movement, insisted, was that no efforts should be made to produce freak crops, no matter what the expense incurred might be, but that cost should be kept down. Therefore, in awarding the prizes cost counts equally with production in determining the prize winners. Quality also is rated and the boy's general knowledge of correct farming methods, as shown by a paper he is required to prepare."

The boys now here are Eber A. Kimbrough and Junius Hill, Alabama; Burley Seagrace and Walter Hale, Arkansas; Ben Leath, Arthur Hill and Monroe Hill, Georgia; Carl Duncan and Howard Burge, Kentucky; John H. Henry, Jr., Louisiana; Bennie Beeson, Barnie Thomas and John Bowen, Mississippi; Charlie Parker, Jr., North Carolina; Philip Wolf, Oklahoma; Miller Hudson and Claude McDonald, South Carolina; John V. McKibbon and Norman Smith, Tennessee; John A. Johnston, Jr., Virginia, and Edward Doyle, Illinois.

HIS VISIT TO ATLANTA PROVED BAD MISTAKE

H. R. Fraser Captured and Held for an Automobile Deal.

When H. R. Fraser decided to pay a visit to Atlanta yesterday he made a mistake, for the sheriff of Fulton county wanted him under a bench warrant issued at the last session of the grand jury, so when he reached the city he was promptly nabbed.

Information as to his presence in the city came in a rather roundabout way. Thinking that Fraser was in New Orleans, requisition papers had been taken out and the sheriff was preparing to send a man to that city. But someone else in Atlanta knew that Fraser was "wanted," and Monday the sheriff received a telephone message saying that if he would come to a certain point the man at the other end of the wire would point Fraser out to him. A deputy was sent and found his man. Fraser is now under arrest charged with larceny after trust.

L. L. Pollitt, of Athens, is the prosecutor. He alleges that he turned an automobile over to Fraser to sell and that when the deal was completed Fraser pocketed all of the $500 received instead of turning it over to the owner of the machine.

IF YOU TAKE MUCH CALOMEL YOU WILL BRING ON RHEUMATISM

Because the Mercury in the Calomel Attacks the Bones and Develops a Painful Mercurial Rheumatism.

Calomel is a powerful mercurial drug. That is why it is used as a strong purgative in obstinate biliousness. The mercury will crash into the sour bile, break it up and throw it off forcibly, and it is the shock of the mercury and the bile coming together that causes the awful nausea, vomiting and sometimes even salivation. A shock such as this always weakens the system and leaves it in a susceptible condition, and in a few weeks there is another bilious attack and another dose of calomel is necessary. It does not require much reasoning to prove that each bilious attack roots into the system a little deeper and a greater shock is necessary to dislodge it. And every dose of calomel that you take is putting mercury into your system, and mercury is a powerful chemical which attacks the bones and causes a gradual wasting away, necrosis of the bone, or mercurial rheumatism, the most painful and the most dangerous form of rheumatism.

Furthermore, calomel simply throws off the stomach the sour fermentation and leaves the cause in the system to make more trouble.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT beats calomel every way. It contains no mercury; it flushes the intestinal canal and bowels and cleanses them of all sourness and undigested waste; and it dissolves the uric acid poison which has generated from the fermenting food that has lain in the stomach and passes it off in the urine, thus removing the cause, which has poisoned the blood and clogged the liver, and the liver of itself resumes its normal activity.

The action of JACOBS' LIVER SALT is quick but mild. It contains the same sulphates that are in the system to digest food, stimulating their deficiency and consequently it combines easily with the juices of the stomach and acts naturally, without griping, nausea or vomiting.

We claim that JACOBS' LIVER SALT is the best liver stimulant made. If you are bilious it will cure you. If you are well take it and keep well, for everyone's liver is apt to get sluggish occasionally, and prevention is always better than cure. A glass of JACOBS' LIVER SALT Effervescent Water before breakfast is a fine every morning habit—try it. ½ pound jar, 25 cents (16c additional by mail). Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta. "A NOTABLE PRECEDENT!"

(From Editorial Atlanta Journal, December 10, 1911.)

A notable precedent in point is furnished by the primary that was held shortly after the death of Gov. Alexander H. Stephens. The president of the senate became acting governor. In due time was conducted a primary in which Acting Governor Boynton was opposed by Governor McDaniel. The latter was the successful candidate and his nomination was officially declared by the state executive committee with never a suggestion of a convention being called or of a new committee being named. That case, we submit is, in every important detail, parallel to the one now under consideration and established beyond all cavilling the rule that should and will prevail.

We really must save our contemporary from itself! Somebody is imposing upon it—for we are sure it would not intentionally misrepresent the facts of so important an event as the nomination of Henry D. McDaniel as governor by the famous convention of 1883.

Governor Alexander H. Stephens died March 4, 1883, President of the Senate Boynton succeeding him as acting governor. He called a state election within the 60-day limit. The state committee called a state convention to meet in Atlanta on April 16, 1883, to nominate a candidate to fill the unexpired term of Governor Stephens.

The most prominent candidates before the people were Boynton and Bacon. A year before the old two-thirds nominating rule had been abolished and the majority rule was substituted. After the counties had acted it was found that neither Bacon nor Boynton had a majority of the total vote of the delegates, though both of them were almost within reach of the nomination. Henry D. McDaniel had 32 votes to his credit out of a total of 300 in the convention. They stuck with Spartan determination, and ballot after ballot ensued. After a desperate struggle in the convention, in which the friends of both Bacon and Boynton fought for their candidate as long as there was hope, Henry D. McDaniel became the choice of the convention and the deadlock was broken; he was nominated, and two weeks later was elected governor to fill the unexpired term of Alexander H. Stephens. And Georgia never had a better governor!

We heartily join our contemporary in the statement that this case, in "every important detail, parallels the one now under consideration and establishes beyond all caviling the rule that should prevail."

But our contemporary has selected a most unfortunate precedent, in bolstering the state committee.

No man in Georgia would have dared in those good old days to suggest that any state committee assume the prerogatives now proudly proclaimed as belonging to the autocratic executive committee now in au ority.

The people ruled in those days and their rights were respected. And they are ruling again in Georgia!

REUBEN, THE RINGMASTER!

Hon. Reuben Arnold, of Atlanta, member of the state committee, and generally sane on everything else except politics, is out in an elaborate defense of the committee. He pleads for its life, notwithstanding the fact that nobody is after it. He declares:

The issues (or rather the lack of issues) in the late campaign were such as to preclude any such preposterous claim to a convention and a right to dictate a platform.

Of course, the suggestion that the state committee call any kind of a deliberative convention in which the representatives of the people may gather for discussion of the public welfare is "preposterous" to Reuben, who was the ringmaster of the aggregation that struck the heaviest blow that popular sovereignty in Georgia has received since reconstruction. Of course, Reuben thinks it "preposterous" that the people have a right "to dictate a platform."

Reuben still refuses to concede the fact that his committee was an issue in the recent campaign. If it was, he thinks that the rebuke administered was that of a set of numbskulls and visionary theorists who hold the insane view that the people have any rights that political tricksters should respect. He says:

At the utmost Governor Brown's support is only 43,000 votes out of a total vote of about 110,000, while the votes of his two opponents were 67,000. Governor Brown, therefore, represents about 22,000 votes less than the majority of the votes cast in 1911, and about one-fifth of the votes cast in 1910. How absurd it is to say that a small faction like this ought to have the authority to call a party convention and proclaim a platform. And Governor Brown's 43,000 votes no doubt include the 17,000 bolters who voted for him as an independent candidate in 1910, and who ought in all fairness be considered enemies of the democratic party. His 43,000 votes would thus be reduced to 26,000 votes if his 17,000 bolters are deducted from the total vote. When we thus see the kind of votes which in all probability nominated Governor Brown, is it any wonder that this independent movement has been suggested? Governor Brown in all likelihood owes his small plurality to his loyal bolters of 1910.

No doubt what Reuben really thinks the state should do, is to turn over the whole machinery of government to his committee, which has been caught in the act of robbing the people of their dearest right—their sovereignty. But Reuben has another think coming to him!

NO SECTIONALISM IN GEORGIA.

In an interesting communication, published elsewhere, a correspondent emphasizes the fact, as illustrated by The Constitution's post-election map of Georgia, that the recent campaign exhibited an entire absence of sectional feeling throughout the state. Candidates carried counties without reference to the part of the state from which they hailed, effectually disposing of the attempt to array one part of the state against another.

The development is, in itself, gratifying. But The Constitution thinks that, by far, the largest significance of this display of non-sectionalism in politics in Georgia, is that the people were roused, without regard to location, to Joseph M. Brown's appeal to protect and resume their sovereignty!

Other candidates toured the state, invading its four quarters. Joseph M. Brown remained quietly at home, sending out his incisive warnings to the people that their liberties and rights were threatened by the usurpations of a wholly partisan state democratic executive committee, and that repudiation was a duty restricted to no portion or faction in Georgia.

The people were quick to see the matter in this broad and fundamental light. Their response, and their regard for their rights, is written in the fact that the man who made popular sovereignty the paramount issue carried more counties than his two opponents combined.

We have for some time believed there was more sound than substance in the talk about sectionalism in Georgia. But we do know—and the recent primary establishes the contention—that once the minds of the people are concentrated on the safeguarding of their constitutional rights, they make answer without regard to section or faction.

In that fact is a pregnant lesson for the state democratic executive committee which meets today.

THE AWAKENED CENTRAL RAILROAD.

A splendid tribute to the enterprise and penetration of Vice President W. A. Winburn, of the Central of Georgia railroad, is the recently broadened publicity policy of that corporation, touching the development of the territory through which it runs. At the instance of Vice President Winburn, the agricultural department of the Central has compiled and issued a handsome and comprehensive publication setting forth scientifically and convincingly what Georgia and Alabama offer the home-seeker, as contrasted with other sections.

Each item in the marvelous range of resources of these two states is accurately covered, beginning with cotton, and going on through truck and general farming, cattle and hog-raising, peach and apple culture, melon-growing, and manufacturing opportunities. The photographs illustrating the book are admirably selected and thoroughly typical.

The best feature of this new publicity development, and one that exactly chimes with the often reiterated contentions of The Constitution, is the arrangement made for its distribution. Thousands of copies were placed at the Chicago Land Show, where they would do the most good in impressing visitors from all sections of the country. Additionally, and in line with this paper's repeated arguments, agricultural and other journals through the north and west are being liberally sown down with advertising setting forth the advantages of the territory of the Central, and urging the home-seeker to write for the descriptive booklet.

Throughout the pamphlet, the fact is driven home with sledge-hammer force that lands much superior in fertility to those of the boasted west and northwest, can here be bought at incomparably lower prices—and that in the midst of a thoroughly established civilization. The idea reflects credit upon the Central's management, and bears out the statement, made recently by The Constitution, that in Vice President Winburn President Markham had chosen an ideal aid, a man thoroughly familiar with his task and his people, in working out the progressive policies characterizing the Illinois Central, of which the Georgia Central is a part.

A CHANCE FOR PARTIAL REDEMPTION.

At its meeting today, the democratic state executive committee will have an opportunity to partially redeem itself in the eyes of the people of Georgia, by giving them a chance to vote direct for president and for their representatives at the next national democratic convention. Prophesying regarding any preceding state executive committee, The Constitution could safely assure the people of Georgia they would not be denied this immemorial right of American citizens. But concerning a committee that has been characterized as "canned," and that has already gone far in alienating rights once regarded as guaranteed, prophecy is hazardous.

There can be little doubt that had any candidate other than Joseph M. Brown been chosen by Georgia, the committee would have climaxed its piracy by usurping the people's last prerogative and themselves selecting the delegates who would cast Georgia's presidential nomination vote. But since the committee's whole program has been unmistakably branded with popular disapproval, the last act of grace left to it is to permit the people to vote their choice for president.

The Ring of the Registers.

The merriest sound in the Christmas air
Is the ring of the registers everywhere.
Their golden chime
From time to time
Is livelier far than a poet's rhyme!

II.

Oh, they tell of joy in homes made bright
Where loved ones dream of the Christmas light.
Ching! and Ching!
You hear them ring;
Oh, they make the hills of the Winter sing!

III.

Joy to hear them, and joy to know
The reason glad why they're ringing so.
No song—no rhyme
Can match their chime:
For they ring and sing of the golden time!

NEGRO KILLED ON TRACK.

Train Hits Black Driving Team Near Cordele.

Cordele, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—Dave Killen, a negro, was instantly killed this afternoon by an incoming passenger train on the Georgia Southwestern and Gulf railroad, while attempting to cross the tracks just outside the city limits, ahead of the approaching train.

He was driving a team of mules belonging to T. J. Slade, Jr., and one of the mules was also instantly killed, the other escaping without injury. The wagon was completely demolished and the negro was hurled about fifty feet. It is thought the negro was asleep, as it was understood the engineer blew his whistle and attempted to retard the speed of the cars.

TOO MUCH POLITICS IS TROUBLE WITH NATION SAYS JOHN KNOX

Hon. John B. Knox, of Anniston, Ala., president of the late constitutional convention of that state, upon being asked for his views upon Mr. Taft's administration and the present business situation said, while in Atlanta:

"The thought uppermost in the mind of almost every one at this time is, 'What is the matter with business?'

"In my opinion, it is too much politics. Perhaps, too, the difficulty is accentuated by too much legislation along wrong lines and too little legislation along right lines.

"Business can, and will, adjust itself to almost any conditions, provided capital can be assured that these conditions will continue to prevail at least for some known period. Under any government in which the people have a voice there must, of necessity, be general elections."

"Under the English government they are supposed to have a general election about once in seven years. Under our government we are supposed to have a general election once every four years. Even this is too often, and there are not a few who believe our president should be elected for six years and be ineligible for re-election. In Alabama, under our new constitution, we have fixed the term of our governor for four years, and have made him ineligible for re-election. Not only have we made him ineligible for re-election as governor, but we have made him ineligible as a candidate for the United States senate during his term of office and for one year after his term of office expires.

Should Attend to Business.

"A chief executive, whether state or national, in my opinion, should be required to consecrate his abilities to the service of the people and not devote his time to retain the office he holds or to secure election to some other office.

"Since Mr. Roosevelt's induction into office we have been regaled with an almost continuous political campaign. The same is true with reference to Mr. Taft's administration. Under Mr. Taft we have enjoyed two extra sessions of congress and almost a year in advance the president has been on the stump campaigning for re-election.

"Everyone seems to be against the trusts. I am not prepared to say that everyone ought to be against all the trusts, when they represent organized capital to accomplish some useful purpose, but certainly, under modern conditions, the politician seems to think it is the proper thing to be against the trusts. Mr. Taft is against the trusts. It is widely proclaimed by his supporters that he is against the trusts and on the side of the people, and they point with pride to the sensational suits which have been instituted under the Sherman law for the dissolution of the trusts.

Suits Against the Trusts.

"I am not acquainted with the facts in these cases, and I am not going to undertake to examine the merits of these suits. I will simply allude to the manner in which they have been handled, so far as it affects business and the general good of the country.

"First in importance is the suit against the Standard Oil Company. It was dissolved. The opinion of the supreme court of the United States in this case was, in my judgment, a very able one. It was to the effect that the rule of reason should prevail in such cases. It was rendered by Mr. Chief Justice White, a southern man, and I have yet to find where any great public interest was intrusted to one of our leading southern men when he failed to measure up to the requirements of the situation.

"There is no disguising the fact, however, that such suits as these alarm capital and affect business.

"After quite a delay, another sensational suit is brought against what is commonly known as the Tobacco trust. I am not a sportsman, but I am a lover of nature. If you have ever seen a covey of birds flushed and know the means by which they get together again after the sense of alarm has passed, you have, no doubt, frequently heard Mr. Bob White whistling from one hill and Mrs. Bob White answering from the adjoining hill. It is so with capital and the great business interests of the country everywhere.

Steel Trust Litigation.

"After a still longer delay the third sensational suit is sprung upon the country, and this is against the United States Steel Corporation, which has valuable interests in my own state, and affects especially the growth, development and prosperity of Birmingham, the largest city in our state.

"I do not know the facts and I am not going to assume to examine into the merits of the same. I am simply commenting upon the time and manner of its institution.

"This question was up in the Roosevelt administration, and if the suit be meritorious it should have been instituted at that time, but, conceding that Mr. Roosevelt is wrong in his conclusion that the suit is without merit, if Mr. Taft believed that the ends of justice required its institution, the suit should have been brought more than three years ago, when he was inducted into office, and not reserved to be brought when he was a candidate for re-election.

"In a recent article I have written in the interest of conservatism, published in The Montgomery Advertiser and The Birmingham Age-Herald in their issues of November 23, 1911, I felt it my duty to say:

"'The tariff, of course, must be reformed; the trusts curbed and controlled; the great public utility corporations of the country regulated. These are conservative, not radical, measures. But this should be done, and must be done, not in order to elect someone to office; not even, if you please, to give political advantage to this or that political party, but because the general good of the country requires it.'

"It becomes truly alarming, and we all suffer, from the humblest peasant who plows his steer through the heated days of July and August, to the magnate in Wall street, who watches the ticker to see whether his fortune is a reality or a dream which has faded, when the great business interests of the country are made the mere football of political aspirations."

LETTERS ON TIMELY TOPICS

The Election Demonstrated Georgia Non-Sectionalism

Editor Constitution: The map of Georgia which you carried on the first page of your issue of Saturday was not only a splendid news feature, graphically showing the results of Thursday's primary, but it served to set forth in the most striking manner a fact which should be most gratifying to all Georgians—that there is no sectionalism in this state and that appeals for support of a candidate because he happens to hail from this or that part of Georgia fall on deaf ears. The map you carried showed as nothing else could that the candidate hailing from northeast Georgia secured most of his support from south Georgia and the northwestern part of the state. The south Georgia candidate carried Fulton and a number of other north Georgia counties, and the victorious candidate was equally strong throughout all sections of the state, carrying Bibb and a number of other south Georgia counties in which appeals had been on the ground of sectionalism for the south Georgia candidate. The result of this primary shows among other things that all Georgians are on an equal footing in Georgia, no matter from what section of the state they hail, and that hereafter it will be poor politics for any man to seek support from any section of the state just because he lives closer to it than does his opponent. While other states are torn by factional and sectional divisions, Georgians may congratulate themselves that they are one people whose first interest is the good of the commonwealth.

IS ALCOHOL A BEVERAGE?

Smedley, in LaGrange Court, Claims It Is Not.

LaGrange, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—Whether or not alcohol, in the eyes of the Georgia law, is considered an intoxicating beverage is a much-mooted question which the court of appeals is hearing in the case of the state against Smedley, of Abbottsford, this county. The case was taken to the higher court from the city court by Hon. M. F. McLendon and M. U. Mooty, attorneys for the defense. It is the contention of the defense that the statutes do not specify that alcohol is an intoxicating beverage, and, therefore, the sale of it does not constitute a criminal offense. Smedley was fined by the lower court. The case is in the nature of a test one the question of the meaning of the statutes, and the high courts decision is eagerly awaited.

"Bypaths in Dixie."

(From The Lynchburg, Va., News.)

Attempts at negro dialect stories must either succeed admirably or fail woefully. Between the two extremes there is no half way place; no station of pleasing mediocrity where one may halt with the consciousness of a moderately well performed task. Only by the stroke of genius and native gift can the work be so done as to make it at all worth while. These things lacking, then all is lacking. No amount of study, or effort at imitation suffices to take their place. The average southerner, too, is an unerring judge of all literary journeys in the field of negro dialect. And a writer embarking upon such a venture knows this full well, and ought to know besides that the direct challenge thus made to a highly competent forum of final judgment, will meet swift and merciless disposition. So true is this, and so remorselessly is the grain winnowed from the chaff of dialect stories that of all the many and accomplished literateurs who have sought success in this line of work, the names of but two have survived as representing consummate mastership of the art. Thomas Nelson Page is one, and Joel Chandler Harris the other.

All of which moves us to the frank confession that it was with many misgivings we recently opened "Bypaths In Dixie," a newly published work—this because from lid to lid, the book is in negro dialect; and we had so often, so almost invariably experienced disappointment in reading similar attempts that we hoped but for little better from this. Agreeable surprise, however, was in store. Mrs. Sarah Johnson Cocke, the author, has indeed succeeded admirably in her difficult task. Her work portrays with rare genius and accuracy the old-time house servant who had so much to do with the rearing of southern children, and who, during many decades gone, met her important responsibilities in a way that redounded to her high honor and to the credit of the race. "Bypaths In Dixie" takes us to the nursery door, affords us glimpses inside where presides the faithful black mammy of the olden time, surrounded by her young charges and entrancing them with the telling of those quaint tales that have made her honored much, and much beloved in childhood's happy kingdom.

Mrs. Sarah Johnson Cocke, the author of "Bypaths In Dixie," is Mrs. Lucien Cocke, of Roanoke, one of the most gracious, cultured and widely known of Virginia women.

ANNUAL BALL PLANNED BY ATLANTA STEWARDS

After the Meeting Committee Members Are the Guests of Albert Belli.

Preparing for the first annual ball to be held at the Piedmont hotel, on January 9, the committee on arrangements of the Atlanta branch of the International Stewards' Association met last night in the Turkish room of Folsom's restaurant.

The Atlanta society is a branch of the national organization, which was the prime mover in securing the passage of the United States pure food law. The association is now using every effort to secure the passage of the Wilson bill, which calls for a federal net weight and measure law. The local branch has received letters of assurance from every senator and congressman of Georgia of their heartiest co-operation in the passage of the bill, which, it is claimed, will save millions of dollars to the consumers in the United States.

The members present at the meeting were: Edw. R. J. Fischel, iedmont; Luke J. Kohler, Transportation Club; Albert Belli, Folsom's; Louis Dupin, Imperial hotel; Henri Brodeur, Capital City Club; C. H. Montgomery, Brooknaven C. C.; E. C. Talbot, New Kimball House.

At the conclusion of its business the committee was entertained by Albert Belli, the popular chef at Folsom's cafe. A splendid dinner was served, rounded out with refreshments and cigars. The skill of the caterer was given high praise by all the guests.

DARROW IS NAMED IN BRIBERY CASE

Alleged That Detective Said Darrow Would See Bribe Money Was Paid.

Los Angeles, Cal., December 11.—Burt H. Franklin, an investigator employed by the defense in the murder trial of James B. McNamara, was held to the superior court today by Justice William P. Young to answer to charges of bribing a juror and attempting to influence the verdict of a jury.

The name of Clarence S. Darrow, chief of counsel for the McNamaras, was brought into the case twice today by witnesses at the preliminary hearing. George N. Lockwood, a venireman, who was arrested with Franklin and later released, said Franklin told him he would see Darrow "and arrange how the money was to be paid." Robert F. Bain, a juror who accepted a bribe, told how he came to do it, and added that Franklin told him Darrow had given him the money "to use."

Franklin, in court, denied that he ever said anything of the sort.

"I might be guilty—though I don't for a moment admit that; but I'm no fool," Franklin said.

He refused to elaborate this declaration.

Attorney Darrow denied any complicity in the affair.

"I do not know what words passed between Franklin and Lockwood," he said; "I have had nothing to do with 'getting to' any jurors. Lockwood, I am told, said late in the day that he spoke to Franklin about 'the big fellow,' saying he supposed I was meant, and Franklin replied: 'I didn't mean Darrow, I mean Captain White.' It looks as if Lockwood might have had my name in mind when Franklin was not talking about me."

District Attorney Fredericks said the state does not possess evidence which would warrant including Darrow in the tangle.

CHILDERS FACING SECOND HEARING

Jury Is Chosen and a Dozen Witnesses Are Examined.

No New Evidence Is Introduced by Prosecution, and the Defendant, Charged With the Murder of His Bride, Is Hopeful of Acquittal.

Americus, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—This morning, for the second time within two months, Mort S. Childers faced a trial jury in the battle waged for his life or liberty upon the charge of murder.

This time the case is heard in Americus, where it was transferred from Lee county under change of venue, and results may differ from that attending the first trial at Leesburg in November, where a mistrial resulted at the conclusion of the third day.

The case was called this morning before Judge Z. A. Littlejohn, who also presided at the first hearing. One hundred and sixty talesmen were called, and from these the trial jury was secured before 2 o'clock this afternoon, many jurors being disqualified or being stricken for cause. The court room was crowded to its capacity when Solicitor General Williams made the presentation of the case to the jury.

The defendant, Mort Childers, surrounded by half a dozen able attorneys, was in excellent physical condition, considering the four months' prison confinement, and is quite confident of acquittal this trial, as are his friends.

Witnesses Examined.

During the late afternoon and early night session, a dozen witnesses for the state was examined, including Doctors Simpson and C. C. Ansley, and Druggist Christie, from whom Childers purchased the bottle of sal hepatica from which his wife took the fatal dose of sal hepatica and strychnine. Mrs. J. F. Kennedy and her son, Robert Kennedy, the young man likewise charged with the murder of Mrs. Childers, but subsequently released.

Mrs. G. W. Chance and Miss Ruth Chance, who occupied apartments in the hotel with Childers and his wife, were also examined this afternoon.

The testimony of each witness today was practically the same as adduced at the first trial in November, absolutely no new feature or evidence being presented. It was simply a recitation of the first story told upon the witness stand at Leesburg and only by mere circumstance did any portion of it point to the possible guilt of the defendant.

Miss Chance Testifies.

Miss Chance told again the story of being present in Mrs. Childers' dining room and witnessing the taking of the medicine and also of seeing young Kennedy at the hallway door looking in at the same moment.

Dr. W. A. Rembert, of Americus, testified again as to having sold Childers strychnine previous to the death of his wife. The strychnine, thus purchased, however, was different from that found in the woman's stomach upon analysis. Childers, at the previous trial, in making his statement, declared the strychnine purchased from Rembert was for the purpose of poisoning a vicious dog.

The state's counsel has not yet shown a probable motive actuating Childers to poison his wife, with whom he lived in happiness and contentment, nor was this shown in the first trial of the case. No new evidence is in prospect so far as the public can ascertain.

The case, in all probability, will be concluded Wednesday afternoon and a verdict is expected with little delay.

AUDITORIUM CHORUS WILL HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

All Who Contemplate Joining Are Requested to Be Present.

The Atlanta Auditorium chorus will meet tonight at Cable hall, under the auspices of the Music Festival Association, for a rehearsal directed by Dr. Percy J. Starnes, city organist.

The Music Festival Association is meeting all the expenses of music, etc., incident to the organization. All singers who contemplate joining are urged to be on hand at 8 o'clock tonight and all who have already joined are asked to make a special point of attending this time.

Captain J. T. Wade, of Hersman, in Screven county, brought about the organization that promises to mean much for this section of the state. He owns about half the stock in the navigation company and besides is constructing a railway to connect Burton's ferry, in Screven county, with the river line.

The incorporators of the new concern are R. L. Brannon, of Augusta; M. Currie, of Augusta; J. T. Wade, of Hersman; T. S. Heyward, of Savannah, and John Mears, of Mears, Ga. The capital stock of the company is $24,000.

PLEA FOR BABES SAVES FATHER FROM STOCKADE

Crying like a baby, J. G. Tillerson, 40 years old, dragged his 180 pounds of weight and six feet of stature before Judge Broyles yesterday afternoon and asked that his probation be extended once more for the benefit of his six motherless and destitute babies. He had been arrested Saturday night for a drunk. He was already under probation for the same offense.

"Judge," he sobbed, "I know I'm under probation. I know I ought to do time in the stockade. I've sowed, and now it's time to reap. But I do want some of you to take care of my babies."

At this juncture of the prisoner's statement, the hustle and hum of the courtroom stopped. Although not a new scene, the sight of an able-bodied man in tears was somewhat unusual in police court. When Tillerson brought the word "babies" into his recital of misfortunes, everybody in hearing distance lent him an ear.

"My wife died a month ago. Just before her death, I had to give up my job so I could be at her bedside. I'm an iron worker, and my place was filled by another man. I had saved up a little money, but all this was taken for burial expenses.

"I had a small home out in the country, near Bolton. My six children ain't old enough to provide for themselves. That's one reason I lived in the country. I didn't want to bring them up in town.

"I had to sell this home, Judge. I had to sell my cow too. I was out of work and money. I employed someone to stay with the children, while I came to town and hunted a job. Saturday night I was almost at my row's end. I went to the Salvation Army headquarters and secured a place to sleep.

"Afterwards, Your Honor, I did the wrong thing. I was almost crazy because of my truobles. A friend offered a drink. I accepted. We took another, another, and I suppose another. But, please, Judge, have someone care for my children."

"Tillerson," said Judge Broyles, touched by the prisoner's recital, "I'm going to extend the probation, but if you've got as much as five dollars, I'm going to fine you that for Saturday night's drunk."

The fine was paid, and Probation Officer Coogler is now assisting Tillerson in trying to secure a position.

AUGUSTA GOES AVIATION MAD

Army Officers at Uncle Sam's School Do Thrilling Air Stunts.

Augusta, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—This city has gone aviation mad. For more than two weeks the United States army aviation camp has been located here and since Wednesday of this week the air has been thick with flying machines.

The camp is in charge of Captain C. D. Chandler, of the signal corps, himself an expert aviator. Then there are First Lieutenant Roy C. Kirtland, of the Fourteenth infantry; Lieutenant H. H. Arnold, of the Twenty-ninth infantry, and Lieutenant T. DeWitt Milling, of the Fifteenth cavalry. In a few days Captain Paul W. Beck, of the Eighteenth infantry, and Lieutenant F. M. Kennedy, of the Tenth infantry, will join the school.

Lieutenant Kirtland traveled over the city Thursday at a height of 2,500 feet, and Friday Lieutenant Arnold broke all records for this section by going up 4,500 feet and remaining in the air three-quarters of an hour. He is the man who captured the altitude prize at Belmont park. Lieutenant Milling, at the big Boston meet earlier in the year, captured the very valuble cross-country prize.

The aviation camp, which will stay in Augusta until the 1st of April, is located about a quarter of a mile east of the city on one of the big hay farms, and Augustans and visitors to the city flock there every day. About Uncle Sam's airmen there is no fuss nor flurry, as with the aviators who fly for money, for they just take it as a matter of course, doing things in Augusta that other cities pay thousands of dollars to see. There are four big bi-planes, two Wrights and two Curtiss', but one of the latter is not yet in operation. Later on two more machines are expected.

Visitors to Augusta are cordially invited to the aviation camp when in the city. Information as to the hours of flight can be secured from the chamber of commerce.

FOREIGN MISSIONARIES WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

The Wonders of the Work at Bolenge Will Be Explained.

The Christian churches of Atlanta will conduct a missionary rally at the First Christian church Tuesday. President A. McLean, of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society, will have charge of the program and will give an address. There will be two sessions of the rally, one at 3 p. m. and one at 7:30 p. m. The afternoon will be given to short addresses by the missionaries and visiting preachers and an address by President McLean.

At the evening session Dr. Dye, of Bolenge, and Dr. Erskine, of Japan, will present their subjects by means of lantern slides. Moving picture scenes of incidents on the heathen field will be presented. There is much interest in the Bolenge church, of Africa, where Dr. Dye had accomplished such a phenomenal work. It is claimed by the missionaries that this is the most consecrated and most evangelistic and benevolent church on the mission fields, and the Bolenge workers state with assurance that it is the most wonderful church in the world. It is expected that large crowds will attend these sessions.

TICKET TO BALTIMORE FOR GEORGE KORECKI

If young George Korecki will call at the probation home at 164 Central avenue he will be given a ticket sent him from Baltimore by his father, who desires the boy's return to home.

Korecki, it will be remembered, was recently before the probation officers charged with theft. He was cleared of the charge and immediately afterward Probation Officer Coogler got into connection with the elder Korecki in Baltimore, asking that transportation home be sent the boy.

The association is headed by T. B. Glenn, of the Bonita theater, while W. M. Gray, of the Forsyth, is the secretary-treasurer. There are fifty members already enrolled, and more coming.

The association is a benefit organization. It takes care of sick and disabled members, and in every way possible tries to promote good feeling. All those on the pay rolls of the local theaters are eligible.

The club will open about the first of the year.

NAVAL OFFICER HURT WHEN AUTO HITS TREE

Warrant Officer Tilleck, of the Yamacraw, Injured at Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—Six officers and men of the revenue cutter Yamacraw were thrown from an automobile going at high speed today and Warrant Officer Tilleck was badly hurt. He was unconscious for a considerable time.

In charge of Lieutenant Steve Yandle, of Atlanta, the men were on their way to Rose Dhu range for rifle practice.

The automobile, a rented machine, was traveling fast when the chauffeur turned suddenly in the road to avoid hitting a wagon. The limb of a tree swept one of the men from the machine and struck Officer Tilleck a blow that will give him considerable trouble for some time.

The machine skidded and all of the men were thrown out. Government rifles and ammunition were scattered in every direction.

The men were hurried back to the city, where they received medical attention, the injured officer being taken to the marine hospital. Later he was removed to the Yamacraw.

HE LIKED DICK RUSSELL AND HERE'S THE RESULT

J. R. Hutchinson, of 266 Cooper avenue, thought that Plain Dick Russell was destined to be named governor of Georgia last week. G. W. Pope, of 28 West Hunter street, was thoroughly convinced that the people of the state were bent on honoring Little Joe Brown with their highest office. As a result of this difference in opinion J. R. Hutchinson is patiently trundling G. W. Pope to Marietta, the home of the successful candidate. A wheelbarrow is the method of locomotion being employed.

The start of the payment of the election bet was made from the office of The Constitution yesterday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. Pope weighs 170 pounds. He is also red headed. Hutchinson weighs about the same and looks husky. Marietta is 35 miles away from their starting point. Neither man would vouchsafe any opinion as to what day or what hour they would reach the abiding place of Little Joe.

"I made the bet and he's got to make good," declared Pope. As a result of this sally there was laughter and cheers from the crowd of curious ones, who assembled to witness the departure.

"I've got plenty of money in my pocket and I'm going to take my time about getting there," said Hutchinson.

"As long as your money holds out, I don't care when you get there," said the red-headed one. More cheers and laughter.

The wheelbarrow is a brand new one and looks like it can stand the punishment. Grave doubt was expressed as to whether the travelers would feel as good as the barrow on the wind-up.

SOCIETY

To Miss McKenzie.

The social events of the afternoon and evening are the receptions and cotillion at which Mr. and Mrs. George McKenzie will entertain for their daughter, Miss Annie Lee McKenzie. Mrs. McKenzie will entertain the married contingent in the afternoon at her residence on Peachtree road and in the evening the younger contingent will be entertained at a cotillion at the Driving Club.

Chesnutt-Denmark.

A brilliant event in Savannah last week, which had its social interest all over the state, was the wedding on Wednesday of Miss Constance Chesnutt and Mr. Remer Denmark, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benjamin Chesnutt.

The bride, one of the most beautiful young women in the social life of the state, is a granddaughter of Mr. Franklyn Wright and a niece of Mrs. Frank Weldon, of Atlanta, and Mr. Boykin Wright, of Augusta, all of whom were present at the wedding. Mr. Denmark is one of the most successful young lawyers at the Savannah bar, and a popular representative of a prominent Georgia family.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Bracker, of the Presbyterian church, and the only attendants were four young men friends of the bride and groom, who formed an aisle with ribbons for the entrance of the bridal party to the drawing room. There they were grouped before an altar of white satin festooned with similax and an elaborate decoration of palms, white roses and white chrysanthemums transformed the apartment into a floral bower.

The bride was lovely in her wedding gown, a Parisian model in white satin charmeuse, hand-embroidered in pearls and draped with point lace. Her veil of point applique, was hung from a becoming point lace cap in which orange blossoms were caught, and her diamonds were the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Chesnutt was gowned in black point lace applique, and Mrs. Boykin Wright wore a black velvet gown with rosepoint. Mrs. Frank Weldon wore yellow charmeuse veiled with chiffon hand-painted in a design of Parma violets and trimmed with gold lace, and a corsage bouquet of Parma violets completed the becoming costume. Miss Marjorie Weldon wore a dainty white mulle and lace gown over pink silk.

An elegant reception followed the ceremony and the spacious home was elaborately decorated in foliage plants, smilax and flowers.

In the dining room the table was particularly beautiful, its cover of white satin veiled with tulle and its centerpiece, a basket of bride roses, and lilies of the valley. White tulle and smilax were draped from the chandelier and the crystal candlesticks tied with white tulle, had white shades decorated with valley lilies. The candles were white rose buds. On mantel and buffet were baskets of pink roses in the midst of ferns.

Music was an incident of a brilliant occasion and an elaborate supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Denmark went south on their wedding trip.

Hengge, on Windsor street Tuesday evening, December 12, at 8 o'clock. Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden will perform the ceremony.

Immediately after the ceremony they will leave for an extended trip to Florida and Cuba and will be at home to their friends at West Point, Ga., about January 1. Mr. Croft is connected with Ragan-Malone Company and this will be of much interest to his large list of friends in Georgia and Alabama.

Y. W. C. A.

The devotional services of the Young Women's Christian Associaiton Sunday afternoon were unusually well attended. Those who failed to hear Miss Roberts talk on her travels through the Holy Land missed a great treat and the Y. W. C. A. is to be congratulated upon securing this gifted speaker for this occasion. The association is also greatly indebted to the musicians for the special music furnished.

A splendid program has been arranged for next Sunday afternoon and will be announced later. The services will be held, as usual, from 4 until 5 o'clock and all women and girls in the city are invited to be present, especially the strangers.

The devotional committee is greatly encouraged about the work and is planning still greater things for the young women of Atlanta. A very interesting and instructive Christmas program will be rendered the Sunday before Christmas.

DIAMONDS. The value of diamonds is entirely dependent upon color, perfection and cutting.

Before our diamonds are mounted they are subjected to the closest imaginable examination. On each an honest, competent opinion is recorded in plain figures, absolutely nothing is hidden; if the stone is not perfect, the shape or cutting not correct, it is so marked.

We do not believe it possible to get anywhere goods of equal value for less money than we charge. We are so confident of this fact that we should really like for you to compare them, and will leave it to your judgment as to the merits of our showing.

SCHOLARSHIP IS GIVEN BY MRS. HUGH WILLET

The educational section of the Atlanta Woman's Club provided the program at the regular meeting yesterday, and it proved very interesting. Mrs. H. E. Stockbridge was chairman in charge, and some inspiring facts were brought out about the funds raised for several rural schools under the patronage of the club—the Tallulah Falls school, the Poplar Springs, the Free Kindergarten, the Samuel Benedict school at Cedartown.

Mrs. H. B. Wey told of the work of the Students' Aid Society which has helped twenty-eight girls within the past two years to secure an education, and her announcement was received with great enthusiasm that Mrs. Hugh Willet, ex-president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, has given a $500 endowment fund for a scholarship through the Students' Aid as a memorial to her daughter, Emily.

Mrs. Woods White, president of the club, presided at the business meeting and the principal feature of discussion was the "calendar" method of raising funds for the completion of the clubhouse payments. This method was adopted by the club and provides that Mrs. White, representing a year, shall appoint twelve ladies as months; they in turn selecting each four weeks, and the four weeks each appointing seven days, the idea being to include the entire club membership, and yet to make each woman responsible for the raising of only a small sum. It was most encouraging that the ladies of West End by this means have already raised in eighteen hours their allotted amount.

It was also announced that the New Years reception will take place New Years afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

To Mrs. Howard.

Mrs. Don A. Pardee will entertain the Art Study Class and their husbands at buffet supper tonight in compliment to Mrs. Walter Howard.

To Miss Mary Brown.

Mrs. William S. Witham will entertain the evening of January 2 at Bide-a-Wee in honor of Miss Mary Brown, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Brown, who will return from school for the holidays the latter part of the week.

Dinner Party.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Smith were the hosts at a delightful dinner at the Transportation Club Thursday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Wragg, of Gadsden, Ala.; Miss Carrie Hengge, of Atlanta; Miss Mel Smith, of Highlands, N. C., and Miss Mildred Smith, of Atlanta.

Turner-Major.

Mr. Isaac Seabring Henderson has announced the marriage of his daughter, Mrs. Clyde Henderson Turner, to Mr. Albert Chastine Major on Saturday, December 9, 1911, Atlanta, Ga.

Henderson-Stearns.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Henderson have announced the engagement of their daughter, Juanita, to Mr. Herbert Hamilton Stearns, of Wichita, Kas., the wedding to take place in the early part of the new year, the date to be announced later.

At Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. G. B. Franklin, who is going to organize a class in expression after January 1, requests that all of the girls who expect to enter the class meet her at the Y. W. C. A. rooms, on the third floor of the Emery-Steiner building, at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Franklin is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, in 1904, taking an A. B. degree with highest honors which made her a member of the National Honor fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa. She was winner in the Central Oratorical League contest, taking first place over Columbia, Cornell, Virginia, West Virgia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, after which she was elected a member of the national oratorical fraternity, Delta Sigma Rho, the first woman to enter that society.

She then traveled as a reader with the Boston Temple quartet.

In 1907 she took her M. A. degree from Chicago University and Ohio Wesleyan in English Drama and Sociology.

She was an instructor in Ohio Wesleyan University for several years and in 1908 was made professor of English oratory in that school which position she held until coming to Atlanta.

Mrs. Franklin spent three summers in Chicago settlement work under Jane Addams, of Hull House.

BABY PITIFUL SIGHT WITH ECZEMA

Completely Covered. Bandaged from Head to Foot. Dared Not Wash Him. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment 4 Weeks and He Was Cured.

"A few days after birth we noticed an inflamed spot on our baby's hip which soon began spreading until baby was completely covered even in his eyes, ears and scalp. For eight weeks he was bandaged from head to foot. He could not have a stitch of clothing on. Our regular physician pronounced it chronic eczema. He is a very able physician and ranks with the best in this locality, nevertheless, the disease began spreading until baby was completely covered. He was losing flesh so rapidly that we became alarmed and decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"Not until I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment could we tell what he looked like, as we dared not wash him, and I had been putting one application after another on him. On removing the scale from his head the hair came off, and left him entirely bald, but since we have been using Cuticura Soap and Ointment he has as much hair as ever. Four weeks after we began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment he was entirely cured. I don't believe anyone could have eczema worse than our baby.

"Before we used the Cuticura Remedies we could hardly look at him, he was such a pitiful sight. He would fuss until I would treat him, they seemed to relieve him so much. Cuticura Soap and Ointment stand by themselves and the result they quickly and surely bring is their own recommendation." (Signed) Mrs. T. B. Rosser, Mill Hall, Pa., Feb. 20, '11.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 29A, Boston, for a liberal sample of each, post-free, with 32-p. book on the skin.

Date Muffins

(Recipe by Mrs. Helen Armstrong)

This recipe has met with considerable favor at Mrs. Helen Armstrong's cooking lectures. Taste these muffins once and you will want more:

Cream three tablespoons of Cottolene with four of sugar and add two beaten eggs, also two-thirds of a cup of milk. Sift two cups of flour with two teaspoons of baking powder, a little salt and nutmeg, and add three-fourths of a cup of dates cut small. Pour first mixture over this, beat thoroughly and bake in greased muffin pans.

Cottolene makes pastry that is light, delicious and digestible.

DEAF-MUTES "SING" IN SIGN LANGUAGE

New York, December 11.—Deaf mutes crowded St. Ann's church yesterday to witness the unveiling of a bust of the Rev. Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, pioneer teacher of the deaf and dumb in America. The service, even to the "singing" of the hymns, was conducted in the sign language. Eleanor Sherman, a descendant of Dr. Gallaudet, unveiled the bust.

Over a century ago Dr. Gallaudet founded the free asylum for the deaf and dumb at Hartford, Conn. From this has grown up the great system of deaf mute instruction.

WOMAN RUN DOWN BY WOMAN DRIVER

Mrs. J. T. Johnson's Car Injures Mrs. C. S. Kuhns in Savannah.

Victim's Condition Very Critical—Mrs. Kuhns' Timidity Considered Responsible for Accident, While Mrs. Johnson Is Exonerated of Blame.

Savannah, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—Within a few feet of a traffic patrolman, Mrs. C. S. Kuhns, aged 53 years, wife of a well-known chiropodist, was run over and probably fatally injured late this afternoon at Bull and Broughton streets, by a touring car driven by Mrs. James T. Johnson, of 313 East York street.

Mrs. Kuhns was hurried to the Park View sanitarium, where her condition is reported as critical. Her skull is fractured, her collarbone is broken and she is injured internally. The wheels of the heavy touring car ran the length of her body.

The car was going slowly at the time and the traffic officer who was within a few feet of the accident declared that it was unavoidable so far as Mrs. Johnson was concerned. She made the proper turn at the corner and Mrs. Kuhns, becoming frightened, dodged several times and finally jumped under the wheels of the automobile.

The timidity of Mrs. Kuhns, which was responsible for the accident, was due to the fact that her husband was run down by an automobile about two years ago and has never recovered. Since that time she has been afraid of automobiles.

Mrs. Kuhns was operated on tonight in an effort to save her life.

ASK COMMITTEE FOR CONVENTION

thorities; in fact, a large number are now regulating the full party machinery by direct vote. Georgia should cling to the old machine methods no longer.

"I took no part in the recent campaign; therefore, what I say cannot be attributed to factional partisanship. I am willing, and want, all factions to have a fair and equal chance. The one thing I am after is for the people who will be expected to cast the votes in the next national election to have some say in naming those whom they will be expected to support.

"I have spoken personally, but I am confident that I voice the opinion of a large majority of the voters, regardless of what faction they have supported or whom they prefer as a presidential candidate. All with whom I have talked or heard from agree with me on the essentials of the request I shall make.

"Furthermore, I am confident that action along the lines advocated by me will be taken by the state committee. Reasons previously given, some of which were partly good, have been removed in toto."

In addition to declaring Governor Brown the nominee of the party the committee will also declare H. M. Stanley, of Dublin, the nominee for the office of commissioner of commerce and labor, which was created by the last legislature.

As previously announced Governor Slaton has called a session of the legislature for January 24, for the purpose of canvassing the returns and formally declaring the result of the state election. MRS. JOHN M. SLATON GUEST OF THE PLAYERS

To Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, the president of their club, the Players gave a beautiful reception yesterday afternoon at the Georgian Terrace hotel. The guests came from 5 until 6 o'clock, and the lounge room where the reception was held afforded a most artistic setting for the occasion. In the receiving line were Governor and Mrs. Slaton, Mrs. Frank Ellis, the vice president of the club; Mrs. Robert J. Lowry, the chairman of the patronesses; Mrs. Livingston Mims, who organized the first dramatic club in Atlanta years ago, and Mrs. Horton, the organizer. Mr. Barbour Thompson introduced the guests, the company made up of Atlanta's most representative and talented people.

Among the guests of honor was Mrs. Joseph M. Brown, while assisting in the entertainment of the party were Mrs. Ransom Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Marye, Captain Henry Bankhead, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mrs. Emil Laurson, Miss Rawson and others.

The buffet from which the sweets and dainties were served had garlands of red roses and smilax as a decoration. The tea table, presided over by Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Thornton and Mrs. Wright, was similarly adorned, and in the circular alcove punch was served from a bowl set in a basket of crimson flowers. The handle of the baskets had electric lights shining through little globes in a design of grapes, and at the base of the basket was a plateau of the fern and roses.

In the far corner of the room on a table ornate with garlands of roses, was the silver punch bowl from which Major Mims so often drank the health of Atlanta's talented people, the first dramatic club organized through his inspiration and that of Mrs. Mims. Mrs. Mims was present at the reception, and was in her beauty and wit and grace the center of a group of admirers.

A bright feature of the afternoon was the musical program. Beside the Spanish orchestra of the Terrace, which rendered an artistic program, there were vocal solos by Miss Stearne of New York, and Mr. Chalmers, both singing charming selections, the music in the balcony of palms over the lounge room.

The reception in every detail was in beauty and pleasure a fitting tribute to the president of the club, Mrs. Slaton not only being the president, but one of the most talented in the group of players.

She wore a chiffon gown in two tones of electric blue, the corsage trimmed in shadow lace. Her black hat was trimmed in white plumes, and made a becoming frame for her patrician face.

Mrs. Mims wore white brocade satin, the corsage trimmed in rose point lace. Mrs. Ellis wore a Parisian gown of emerald green satin, with graceful draperies in black lisse embroidered in a design of gold roses. The corsage was embroidered in green in graduating shades and gold, and finished with a veiling of black tulle. Her black hat was trimmed in paradise aigrettes. Mrs. Lowry wore a wine-colored satin gown; the coat embroidered and opening over a corsage showing a touch of rose in the finish. Her hat was trimmed in plumes changing from wine to rose color.

Mrs. Horton was handsomely gowned in black satin, the corsage trimmed in lace and jet, and her hat trimmed in white plumes. Mrs. Marye wore a garnet cloth gown, with plumed hat to match. Mrs. Wright wore a lavender charmeuse gown, with black plumed hat.

ATLANTA

Stricture

THERE is too much rough work, cutting and gouging in handling cases of stricture. My 35 years of experience with diseases of men, chronic diseases, nervous disorders, have shown me, among other things, that many cases of stricture may be cured with less harsh treatment than they generally receive. Intelligent, careful and scientific treatment by a physician of experience cures without pain. The fake violet ray treatment simply separates the patient from his money. I have found, too, that many cases of supposed stricture are only an inflitrated condition of the urethra and not true strictures. My office hours are 8 to 7; Sundays and holidays, 10 to 1. My monographs are free by mail in plain, sealed wrapper. Examination free.

Ford

75,000 Ford Model T cars are going to be built for 1912. The world-wide demand for the Ford Model T, based on merit alone, compels that production. By building only one model and in such great quantities, a big price reduction has been made possible. No change in this Standard Car, except added refinements to make it more convenient for the owner.

The lightest weight 4-cylinder car in the world; size, power and capacity considered. 60 pounds to every horse power. If weight is an advantage, why don't the makers of heavy weight cars advertise and point out the advantage of weight? They may come to it some day—but they're a long way behind right now.

Ford Model T Touring Car
Four Cylinders. Five Passengers.
With complete equipment:
Extension Top. Speedometer.
Ford Magneto built into motor.
Automatic Brass Windshield.
Two 6-inch Gas Lamps. Generator.
Three Oil Lamps. Horn and Tools.

Why is the FORD Model T so much more practical and economical that 80,000 value-comparing buyers selected it in preference to all other makes of cars? Because of its exclusive features, because it was a Henry Ford car backed with a Ford guarantee and built throughout of Vanadium steel—that wonderful metal, which after heat-treatment by special Ford process is best in giving strength and power to resist shock and vibration.

Ford Planetary Transmission makes it safer to drive and easier to operate than cars with sliding, crunching, stripping gears.

The genius of Henry Ford built the Magneto into the flywheel, as an integral part of the motor, compelling ignition sparks with every turn of the flywheel.

Only car in the world with its Rear Axle absolutely free from weight. Not even a truss rod support.

Its Spring Suspension is so unique as to allow correct distribution of weight, guaranteeing easier riding qualities by receiving and absorbing shocks at greatest distance from passengers. Also greatly saving the wear of the car from rough roads.

Its great economy is proved by the car's averaging 20 to 28 miles on a gallon of gasoline and 5,000 to 8,000 miles on one set of tires.

These features and many more, showing the same Ford genius, are not found on any other car except those bearing the name of Ford. You know the quality mark.

See the FORD Model T cars. They have been called a liberal education in simplified mechanics. They will help you in business and add to your pleasures. Do not delay your order, the demand is world-wide, so order early and enjoy yourself.

In addition to the Ford Model T Touring Car, we offer for immediate delivery the following models:

"POISONED PEN" CASE RESULTS IN ACQUITTAL

Miss DeWitt Freed on Technicality Based on Federal Rule of Practice.

Philadelphia, December 11.—A technicality based on federal rule of practice abruptly ended in the United States court here today the "poisoned pen" case in which Miss Harriet DeWitt, of Easton, Pa., was accused of writing anonymous letters to the Rev. Elmer E. Snyder, pastor of Christ Evangelist Lutheran church, his wife and some of his neighbors.

The government attempted to have admitted in evidence a sample of Miss DeWitt's handwriting, but Judge McPherson ruled it out on the ground that, under the federal rule of practice, a test paper cannot be admitted as evidence unless it has some other bearing on the case other than that of a test to show comparison of handwriting.

The government attorney announced that with the exclusion of this test paper the case fell, and Judge McPherson directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Miss DeWitt was accused of writing letters that, for over a period of ten years, cast suspicion on prominent residents of Easton, and at times threw the town into turmoil. It is charged that the letters' particular target of attack was Elmer E. Snyder, pastor of Christ Evangelical church as Easton. Among others who received defamatory notes were young wives and husbands. The scandal created at times caused uproar throughout the county.

MIDSHIPMEN APPEAL FOR REINSTATEMENT

Washington, December 11.—Former Midshipmen Charles L. Clifford, of Massachusetts, and Gaston Lee Holmes, of Mississippi, buttressed by their representatives in congress today, appealed to the house committee on naval affairs for reinstatement in the Naval Academy, from which they were dismissed last February for desertion while with the Atlantic fleet in Norway. The boys declared that while on a shore leave they missed a train to take them back to the squadron; that between trains they visited a mountainous country, where they lost their way and could not communicate with their squadron for three days. The committee reserved decision.

ENGINEER IS KILLED WHEN ENGINE FALLS

Pelzer, S. C., December 11.—Engineer Lawrence Maddox and the negro greman on the local freight train of the Southern railway between Columbia and Greenville, were instantly killed here this afternoon when their engine fell from a coal chute fifteen feet to the ground below. The men were caught under the tender.

The engine was placing coal cars on the chute when the brakes failed to work and the engine and tender toppled off.

A little girl standing nearby was seriously scalded by escaping steam.

Washington, December 11.—A memorial meeting in honor of the late Justice Harlan, of the supreme court of the United States, will be held Saturday at the capital. Governor Willson, of Kentucky, Justice Harlan's native state, will preside. Solicitor General Lehmann will be chairman of the committee on resolutions.

WHITAKER JUST MISSES GETTING ANOTHER TRIAL

Sensational Case Against New Orleans Police Chief Not Yet Settled.

New Orleans, December 11.—Edward S. Whittaker, former chief of police of New Orleans, who was recently convicted of immoral charges involving young girls, and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary, barely missed getting a new trial today. The state supreme court was equally divided on the question of affirming the sentence, two voting in favor of the lower court's decree and two in favor of granting the appeal for a new trial.

The court appointed Judge Porter Parker, of the civil district court, to sit with the supreme court in a final determination of the appeal. A reargument of the case was ordered to be held on a date to be named in the future.

MORE PEOPLE GIVE THANKS FOR BENEFITS RECEIVED

Hundreds Visit Great Scientist's Representative at Jacobs' Marietta Street Pharmacy and Tell of Wonderful Results From Juice Treatment.

That the holiday rush is not preventing sufferers from seeking relief by the aid of Root Juice, the strange new liquid which has been creating so much excitement in Atlanta and other cities in Georgia, was demonstrated Saturday. For on that day there was the greatest demand for this new medicine which has yet been recorded.

From the time the scientist's representative arrived at the store in the morning until he left at night he was busy demonstrating the wonderful properties of this liquid and filling orders.

"Because of the approach of Christmas," said the representative, "I did not expect the demand for this remarkable medicine would be so great. But I find that the hundreds who have been benefited are spreading the joyful news, with the result that friends, neighbors and acquaintances of those who have told me stories of seemingly miraculous benefits are determined to try this liquid.

"I was really surprised at some of the testimonials which people in Atlanta have voluntarily given me.

"These people have come from practically every walk of life, and they have not hesitated to tell me what great faith they have in this strange liquid. Some of these stories from people who had suffered for years from rheumatism—swollen limbs, agonizing pains, knotty hands and soreness—have really been remarkable. There was one gentleman who first came into the store on crutches and when he came the next time for a new supply of the Juice treatment his crutches were missing. He said he was free from pain for the first time in several years."

The representative pointed out just what effect this medicine, to which so many seemingly miraculous cures have been attributed, has upon the human system.

He explained how thick coating on the tongue vanishes when the stomach has been placed in proper working order; how the liver is stirred to action and how former sufferers get up in the morning, clear-headed, refreshed, bright-eyed, strong and ready for the day's work. He told, too, how it makes the stomach feel fine; how it creates a hearty, healthy appetite and allows one to eat heartily and enjoy the meal without any bad effects afterward.

"When the stomach is working properly," he said, "the food is digested and the blood is nourished, and there is no poison from decaying and undigested food in the stomach to be taken into the blood."

The representative may be seen at Jacobs' Marietta street Pharmacy, from 9 to 1 and from 2 to 7 in the evenings.

MANCHESTER TIRED OF LAWLESS DEEDS

Citizens Hold Mass Meeting and Call for Enforcement of Law.

Manchester, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—A mass meeting was held this afternoon in the Masonic Hall by the citizens of Manchester to express indignation at the many acts of lawlessness that have been perpetrated here and in this section of the county.

There have been several murders and two lynchings this year but the last crime, was the robbing and beating of Will Johnson and Bradley Thornton, two Atlanta negroes, and the murder of the former, last Thursday night. The negroes were held up on the street relieved of their money and then carried to a patch of woods adjacent to "Greentown," a negro suburb, where they were beaten unmercifully and Johnson shot to death. Thornton managed to escape, when Johnson was shot.

When Johnson's body was discovered, inquiries were made and Thornton was located at Bullochville and brought back to Manchester to testify before the coroner's jury. He at first denied knowing the guilty parties but when the jury was dismissed he pointed out B. B. Routon and J. E. Collier, proprietors of a meat market here, who served as constable and juror respectively during the coroner's investigation, as the ones who committed the crime. Collier and Routon left but were captured and brought back to Manchester. They were turned over to Sheriff Jarrell who carried them to Greenville to jail.

A resolution, signed by nearly 100 citizens was adopted at this afternoon's meeting, calling on the county officers to seek out the offenders and to prevent a recurrence of the acts of lawlessness that have occurred in this section of the county.

HEARING IS RESUMED IN J. W. KNIGHT TRIAL

District Attorney Has Presented Over Half of the Government's Case.

Huntsville, Ala., December 11.—Upon the return of Judge Grubb from Birmingham, where he spent Sunday, the trial of John W. Knight on a charge of using the mails to defraud customers of Knight, Yancey & Co., was resumed in the federal district court at 2 o'clock today.

The district attorney is a little more than half finished with the presentation of the government's case against Knight. He will continue to examine clerks connected with New York brokerage and commission houses that did business with Knight, Yancey & Co. The attorneys for the defense and prosecution both have been busy on the case since court took a recess Saturday.

It is believed the trial will consume at least four days longer.

B. F. Leathen, a public accountant, was the chief witness today. He gave some of the figures he found in his examination of the books of the firm of Knight, Yancey & Co. The liabilities, he said, amounted to $5,090,173.84 and the tangible assets were $1,126,316. He found 46 bills of lading calling for 55,550 bales of cotton that were never delivered, although the firm had collected $4,069,326. Witness said the books showed that the firm lost nearly $3,000,000 on spot cotton in two seasons. When the firm went into bankruptcy its net insolvency was $3,263,867.

F. Vangerhin, a foreign exchange dealer of New York, said that he had been dealing with Knight, Yancey & Co., six years, but never had knowledge that any bills of lading were forged until about ten days before the failure of the firm.

Olsen was more dead than alive and is not expected to recvover from the exposure and exhaustion which followed the capsizing of his little sail boat last night. Olsen's craft was overturned near Deer Point light and the necessity of taking care of his dog prevented any effort to right the boat. He was in the water four hours, but all the time the dog's head was held above water.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

A crazy comedian and an auburn-haired mistress of melody are making the Forsyth a popular place of amusement this week. They are given the assistance of a number of clever people in their acts, all of which adds to the enjoyment of the performance.

The titian-haired singer is known on the stage as Linden Beckwith. She has been here before, once as "The Girl in the Golden Frame" and last season in an act very similar to that of this year, with a switch of songs as a change.

She has a far better voice than the majority of the women who appear in singing roles on the vaudeville boards, and doesn't depend upon ragtime airs to get her through. There is a restfulness about her tuneful songs that sets one thinking of the difference between them and the choppy "get it over quick and sing it loud" style.

As for the crazy fellow, most folks who went to the Forsyth grew to believe they knew him well enough to call him by his front name when he was here with his pretty partner a year ago. It's our old friend Dooley back again, this time by himself.

He has an original opening. Just strolls on while the property men are preparing to take down the scenery of the sketch just concluded. Finds himself on a little quicker than he thought (that is apparently), tries to explain to the audience how it happened, makes an awful muddle of it, smiles feebly, and the first thing people in the front know they are laughing both at and with him. Then when he's got them where he can do pretty much, and incidentally say just about what he pleases he starts in to sing. It's not much of a song, but Dooly doesn't care. He is just like Eva Tanguay about that. He kids the audience, he kids himself and when there is on one else handy he says a few things to "Jake," the leader of the orchestra. Jake can't help himself.

The Lorch family shows Atlantans something new in the acrobatic line.

Well costumed, with the act excellently staged and every trick well done, the members of this organization proceed to cut loose acrobatic stunts that begin where the others leave off. Everything is done so easily and so quickly that lots of time the workers are not given full credit. Even at that, however, time and again they get the applause that is their due, and when audiences applaud acrobatic acts in Atlanta these days, you don't need to say anything more. It's got to be good.

The bill opens with the Ramsdell Trio, European novelty dancers, who present a very neat and attractive looking act. Two girls and one man offer many varieties of dancing.

The Stubberfield Trio have an unusual aerial bar number, which opens with a flirtation between strollers on a boulevard and ends with wonderful feats high above the stage.

Kimberly and Hodgkins feature their act with a ragtime song drop. On it are painted the cover pieces of all the popular successes. The two singers have a few songs of their own, which bring them enough applause for several encores.

Percy Waram and company in a ludicrous sketch, "The Boatswain's Mate," keep the crowd laughing the most of the time. The burglary idea is novel in its execution.

"A Kentucky Romance."

(At the Lyric.)

A very large audience witnessed the opening presentation of "A Kentucky Romance" last night at the Lyric, and the frequent laughter and applause with which they greeted amusing points in the play indicated that Beulah Poynter and her cast had made a success from the beginning.

There are a number of good laughs in the play, Sam J. Burton, as Uncle Muse, the old family servant, being responsible for most of them, and Beulah Poynter, as Cynthia, succeeded in pleasing her audience fully.

To begin with, she is pretty, and her impersonation of the half-grown child in the play was well done.

Later on, of course, she grows into a most beautiful and fortunate young lady, and everything turns out beautifully for her, which is just as a play of the type of "A Kentucky Romance" should end.

In the meantime, however, there is a mystery hanging over the head of the "old and honorable" Jameson family; an ambitious mother tries her best to divert the hero's matrimonial intentions toward a very wealthy heiress, who will add to the prestige of the old family's name by some timely coin, and a drunken, brawling father makes life miserable for little Cynthia.

John Bowers played the role of Lee Jameson, the "scion" of the old southern family; Frances Young, as Mrs. Hannibal Jameson, made a pleasant impression with her dignified characterization of the scheming mother, and Bertha Julian, as Marcia Talbot, the heiress, pleased the audience by her acting.

Sadie Steelsmith, as Aunt Samantha Tubbs, drew repeated hearty laughter with her comedy, and, as a whole, the audience seemed to enjoy the performance very much indeed.

"Sign of the Four."

(At the Orpheum.)

Who has not read Conan Doyle's "Sherlock Holmes," the most wonderful and ingenious detective creation in modern fiction? And, among all the stories of the famous master of crime, who has not undergone an extra thrill while reading the story of the poison darts of the dwarf in "The Sign of the Four"?

The dramatized version of "The Sign of the Four" appeared at the Orpheum last night, and, amid the thrills of the dangerous chase after elusive thieves with the wonderful stolen jewels, the hair-raising encounter with the poison darts of the savage dwarf, the tracing of a murderer who has left little clew as to his identity, and the final total loss of the jewels when the thieves throw them into the river rather than have the rightful owners recover them, the audience was kept spellbound or wildly applauding the masterful Sherlock Holmes, the great detective, or his faithful protege, Dr. Watson.

The Orpheum audience is critical, and the manner in which "The Sign of the Four" was received denotes the ability of the actors and actresses. The villain was hooted and hissed continually, the detective cheered. The play was a success, and will probably continue so for the remainder of the week with the usual matinees.

"Dawn of a Tomorrow."

(At the Atlanta.)

Seats are now selling for the engagement of Isabelle Lowe and company at the Atlanta theater in Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's play, "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," which will be here Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This play has never been given in the south and will be presented with the original production. Miss Eleanor Robson, who retired from the stage following her marriage to August Belmont, created the principal role and Miss Lowe was selected from the many applicants to take her part. The original Liebler production is used in presenting the play. A carefully selected company will assist Miss Lowe in making for the success of the engagement. The story of the play is most interesting and holds attention from the curtain rise. Miss Lowe plays the part of Glad, a London waif, and does it extremely well.

"Two Women."

(At the Grand.)

In an adaptation by Rupert Hughes of Cicconi's Italian play, "The Statue of Flesh," called in its Americanized form, "Two Women," Mrs. Leslie Carter will appear at the Grand tonight, tomorrow, matinee and night. This play gives Mrs. Carter her first opportunity to play a double role. It affords Mrs. Carter the best opportunity she has had in the last few years to appear at her best.

It is said that at the end of the fourth act Mrs. Carter rises to her biggest climax with a force which is torrential, a scene which arouses her audiences to real enthusiasm and wins their admiration.

Mrs. Carter will have a large company in her support which numbers fifty people, many of whom are especially engaged for the important scene at the Bal Tabarin, and the production is altogether magnificent and handsomely costumed.

STATEN WIRES GRIM TO COME

Followers of the fistic game in Atlanta are taking no small interest in the 10-round boxing contest to be waged in Harry Staten's club Friday night between Jake Ables, of Chattanooga, and Young Joe Grim, of Baltimore.

While they realize that this will, in all probability be a classy go, they recognize that it portends better things to come.

The Staten Club in the Emery-Steiner building is now practically ready for the boys to step in the square and Manager Staten is busy lining up a sizzling semi-final and an interesting preliminary.

Grim will reach here either today or tomorrow and reports that he is ready to crawl through the ropes on his arrival. Ables has been on hand for several days and is working hard, though he appears fit to go over a much longer route than the ten rounds scheduled.

Biscuits are always good when made of K K K Flour.

HARVARD TAKES ON VANDERBILT

Commodores Will Take Place of Carlisle Indians.

Date of Game Not Yet Announced, But It Will Probably Be Early in November. Harvard Is Done With Carlisle.

Nashville, Tenn., December 11.—(Special.)—Word has been received here from Boston tonight to the effect that Harvard has set aside her annual contest of long standing with the Carlisle Indians and given that date to Vanderbilt for next season.

This decidedly radical departure in Harvard's football program came about directly through the Indians repudiating their local engagement the past fall and procuring a game with Harvard secretly instead.

Harvard authorities at the time gave public utterance to the effect that they were through with the Indians for good and tonight's announcement would seem to confirm this assurance.

It is declared that the attitude of the Harvard football authorities in giving this game to Vanderbilt is causing some comment at Cambridge.

The date of the game is not announced, but it will probably be early in November.

STATEN'S CLUB IS READY FOR BOYS

Manager Harfy Staten has wired transportation to Young Joe Grim and his manager and they can be expected to arrive in Atlanta by tomorrow. They are in Memphis at the present time.

Jake Abel is here and ready. He and his sparring partner Mike Knockemoffski are putting on the finishing touches. A glance at Abel is all that is necessary to see that he is "ready."

The local boxing fans who have followed the careers of these two boys are a unit in declaring that both of them will have the hardest battle of their careers, with the odds just about a toss up as to who will draw the edge.

Two corking good preliminaries will be announced today by Manager Staten, rounding out a swell card.

TICKET SCANDAL BEING PROBED

National Baseball Commission Is Looking for Evidence.

Statement Issued Asking Public to Furnish Evidence of Collusion Between Giant Officials and Scalpers—Orders a Ban on Baseball Pools.

New York, December 11.—The national commission issued a statement tonight inviting the public to prove it if there was collusion between the New York National League Baseball Club, or any of its officials, and ticket scalpers in the world's series last October. So far, Chairman August Herrmann said the commission has spent $1,500 looking for evidence and was prepared to spend more. It has investigated the scandal, he declared, and would continue to investigate, but real proof was hard to get. What evidence had already been garnered, he did not disclose.

Another matter discussed was gambling in baseball pools, upon which the members placed a ban. To correct this evil, the commission adopted a resolution recommending to the National and American leagues that they do all in their power in their respective circuits to end the custom. It also was announced that the commission will consult with "the postoffice authorities and the proper federal officials, to secure their co-operation to that end, it having been reported to the commission that several newspapers and other periodicals carried these pools, making it seem a lottery."

The commission reported that it had referred to President Lynch, of the National, and Johnson, of the American League the request of the Eastern and Pacific Coast Leagues and American Association for higher rating. Each major league will consider the question at its meeting tomorrow. The commission will receive their reports at its annual meeting in Cincinnati January 3, and dispose of the matter then.

Incidentally while the commission was considering the request, the Eastern League magnates a few blocks away, approved it and voted to change its name to the International League. President Edward G. Barrow was re-elected president, secretary and treasurer for a term of five years. The playing season will open April 18 and close September 23.

In length of discussion the world's series ticket scandal overshadows every other topic before the national commission.

Aquatic Championships.

New York, December 11.—The aquatic indoor championships for 1912 will be held a few weeks in advance of the usual time in order to allow candidates for the coming Olympic games in Sweden to have a thorough rest before taking up training for the international events.

Local and district championships will take place in January. The national championships will be distributed throughout February, and as usual they will be allotted in small parcels to the various clubs applying for sanction. New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Chicago and St. Louis all expect to get their share.

Fred Clarke Signs.

New York, December 11.—Fred Clarke, for years manager of the Pittsburg National League team, signed a contract today to manage the team again next year. He will not play, however, but will direct the players from the bench.

BICYCLE RIDERS CONTINUE GRIND

Thirteen Teams Tied at End of 24 Hours—Sprints About Midnight.

New York, December 11.—Pedalling steadily something over 5 miles behind the record, fifteen teams of bicycle riders, thirteen of them on even terms, tonight completed the first twenty-four hours of their six-day grind in the annual race at Madison Square Garden. Two of the teams, Ryan and Cavanagh and Wiley and Galvin, were lapped during a forenoon sprint.

Aside from the exciting dash which broke the straightout tie among the contestants, the day was one of comparatively little incident. This evening the riders kept steadily at the grind with only an occasional sprint. None of the rear guard riders made any attempt to regain his lost distance.

Thirteen teams were tied at 10 o'clock, the end of the twenty-fourth hour, with the Galvin-Wiley and Ryan-Cavanagh teams still a lap behind. The record, made last year, is 481 miles 4 laps.

About midnight, in a long series of sprints started by Palmer, two teams were lapped, one of them being the Thomas-Stein team, which had been tied with the leaders. Ryan and Cavanagh were lapped twice during the hard riding, their double loss putting them three laps behind the dozen teams bunched in the lead.

MERCER SQUAD HARD AT WORK

Mercer University, Macon, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—The Mercer basketball team is now hard at work trying to get in trim for the first game of the season. There is a great deal of spirit shown among the men and they are all working hard.

A marked improvement is shown in the individual work of the men as well as in the team work in passing. Although the men have been practicing together for only about a week they seem to know the style of playing of each other, and what each one can do. One reason of this is that so many of last year's team are back.

The new men seem to fit right into their places and both are practicing sure of places on the squad.

Bloom at center is a fine player and is just what the team last year needed. He is tall, rangy and a good shot and keeps his men covered well. At present he is out of the practice on account of a bad twisted knee which he received in football. He practiced for a few days but twisted his knee again and will probably be out for a week or two.

He is practically the only man that can play center and if he is unable to play he will be missed mighty bad. Doyle is showing up well either as forward or guard and will make a valuable man. All of last year's men show an improvement in form and are in good shape.

There are very few colleges in this part of the country who have basketball teams and Mercer has not been able to arrange games with any of them yet except Auburn. Manager Cook is trying to get games with Central of Kentucky and with Vanderbilt. He has arranged games with a number of Y. M. C. A. teams some of whom rank at the top of the list of teams in the south.

"HONEST JOHN" KELLY DEAD

Mobile, Ala., December 11.—John F. Kelley, superintendent of streets of the city of Mobile, and who in the nineties managed the Mobile team and afterwards the Atlanta and Macon, Georgia, baseball teams, an umpire and authority on baseball, died here today after a short illness from pneumonia. Kelley was known as "Honest John" and brought out many stars in his time, including Charley Frank, the manager of the New Orleans Baseball Club.

The Reason.

(From McCall's Magazine.)

Magistrate—What! Do you mean to say your husband struck you, and he a physical wreck?

Mrs. Maloney—Yer, yer honor; but he's been a physical wreck only since he struck me.

WOMAN OWNER OF BALL CLUB TO MEET WITH THE MAGNATES

New York, December 11.—For the first time in the history of organized baseball, so far as known, a woman is to attend a major league meeting. The woman is Mrs. Helen Hathaway Britton, owner of the St. Louis National League Baseball Club, who is here to attend the annual meeting of the National League director's tomorrow. She has been in New York for such meetings often but never has attended one.

"I was brought up on baseball," she said, "and the National League. First I came on with my father and then with my uncle. And now I am coming on my own account.

"Are you going to vote and take part in the meeting?" Mrs. Britton was asked.

"Oh, dear, no," she answered. "Mr. Steininger, the president of the club, will do all the talking for us just as Mr. Bresnahan takes care of the players. But inasmuch as I have all the interests of the club at heart" (and then with a smile), "and in my pocketbook, I think I ought to be here."

AUBURN LOSES FOUR VETERANS

Auburn, Ala., December 11.—(Special.)—Clagdell, Allen, Davis and Banner have played their last on the Auburn squad, having worked the full four years.

Burus, Newell, Major and Cruse are two-year men and most of the others are first-year players.

The 1912 schedule has not been made out yet, but it will in all probability be as follows:

Mercer in Auburn.
Mississippi A. & M. in Birmingham.
Clemson at Clemson.
University of Texas at Mobile.
Georgia Tech in Atlanta.
University of Georgia in Savannah.

The possibility of a game with Vandy has been talked of a good deal, and whether or not it will actually come off or not depends on Vanderbilt. They wished to play us this year and we refused on account of the crippled condition of our team, but the proposition was made to Vandy that Auburn would make a five-year contract, the games to be played either in Atlanta or Birmingham. Since this offer was made nothing has been heard from Vanderbilt at all on the subject.

Dogs Run the Derby.

Letchachie, Ala., December 11.—The running of the first heat of the derby marked the opening of the third annual field trials of the Southern Field Trials Club here today. Twenty dogs started but because of dry conditions the work was not up to standard and but six qualified for the second heat to be run tomorrow. The judges for the meet are Lee M. Moody and Sidney Rosenstill, of Montgomery, Ala., and R. L. Stedman, of Winston-Salem, N. C. The all-age stake will follow the Derby and is expected to have about twenty starters.

Then He Moved.

(From Judge's Library.)

His lines were cast in pleasant places,
Far from the maddening crowd;
He was feeling fine till he saw the sign:
"No Fishing Here Allowed."

FEDERAL COMMISSION TO CONTROL COMBINES

Advocated Before Senate Committee by Two Professors of Economics.

Washington, December 11.—John Bates Clark and J. Lawrence Laughlin, professors of economics in the Columbia University, and the University of Chicago, respectively, told to the senate committee on interstate commerce today their views of meeting anti-trust problems. Professor Clark suggested a general industrial commission with powers similar to those of the interstate commerce commission. Professor Laughlin contended that size and monopoly were no restraint of trade if they were based on natural monopoly, and that publicity would show when and where monopoly is artificial, and consequently, when and where to interfere.

Francis Lynde Stetson, of New York, advocated a government commission to pass in advance upon the character of industrial corporations which threaten to monopolize the field in which they may be operating.

Mr. Stetson said he would not advocate repeal of the anti-trust law.

"The Sherman law is enshrined in the minds of the people, and there would be such distrust of the motives of those attempting to repeal or modify it that the effort would do greater harm than good."

The committee will meet again tomorrow.

She Knew.

(From McCall's Magazine.)

"My dear," called a wife to her husband, who was in the next room, "what are you opening that can with?"

"Why," he said, "with a can-opener; what did you suppose I was doing it with?"

"Well," replied his wife, "I thought from your remarks you were opening it with prayer."

COTTON CLOSED STEADY AT LOSS

Government Estimate of Crop Had But Little Effect on Market.

New York, December 11.—The government's estimate of the cotton crop placing the season's yield at 14,885,000 bales of 500 pounds gross exclusive of linters, appeared to be very nearly in line with expectations in the local market and while trading was extremely active, both before and after the publication of the report, there was no very important change in prices. The close was steady, but a net decline of 7@11 points, and, at practically the lowest level of the day.

The market opened steady at a decline of two points to an advance of 1 point and while the cables were better than due, worked gradually lower during the morning and early afternoon, under heavy selling by local or southern bears and scattering liquidation. There was a good demand on a scale down in the way of covering by smaller shorts, and some trade buying, but before the government report was issued, active months had sold 7 to 10 points under the closing figures of last night, with all position except July, making new low records for the season. Immediately following the government figures which were published promptly at 2 o'clock, the market rallied 10 or 12 points from the lowest on covering and buying by foreign houses, but the demand was readily supplied on the advance, and the market later turned easier again, with January cotton selling at 8.55; March at 8.62 and May at 8.72 or 9 to 11 points under the closing figures of Saturday, just before the close.

The south was said to be a seller here during the day, and the market's chief support again seemed to come from the covering of shorts and the buying from abroad.

The government's estimate was probably based on the recent ginning report but an average of 31 individual estimates made recently by experts or trade authorities placed the commercial crop of 15,070,000 bales, whereas today's official figures were considered as pointing to a growth for the season of not less than 15,300,000 bales allowances for linters, while there also seemed a disposition here to consider the government likely to under-estimate in large crop years.

Receipts today, 70,309 bales against 81,313 last week and 77,086 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans, 11,403 against 14,188 last year. At Galveston, 20,104 against 15,350 last year and at Houston 26,754 against 26,841 last year.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, December 11.—With the bureau report, giving the crop at 14,885,000 bales, the bearish sentiment is, if anything, increased on the belief that they have, as usual with a large crop, underestimated the total yield. When the report was published, the market sold off 2 to 3 points, which uncovered such a number of buying orders that the decline was changed into a quick advance of some 16 points. Then the south and local traders supplied the demand from Europe, closing the market a shade lower than before the report.

The sentiment is as bearish, if not more so, than at any time this season. We find this view throughout the south and the north, while Europe each day takes more cotton than America thinks she should.

Dry Goods.

New York, December 11.—Cotton goods market was quiet and barely steady during the day. Trading is confined to small lots. The dress goods and men's wear mills are reporting a better sold-up condition for spring, more particularly the large corporations making staples. Raw silk is quiet here.

Wool.

St Louis, December 11.—Wool steady; medium grades, combing and clothing, 21@21½; light fine, 15@19; heavy fine, 13@15; tub washed, 27@30.

New York, December 11.—Raw sugar steady; Muscovado, 89-test, 4.37; centrifugal, 96-test, 4.87; molasses, 89-test, 4.12. Refined quiet. Molasses steady.

FROM OBSERVATIONS TAKEN AT 7 O'CLOCK LAST NIGHT.

BUYING STOCKS MORE CONFIDENTLY

Better Day on Stock Exchange Than for Long Time—The News of the Day.

New York, December 11.—Wall street heard more good news today than on any other day for many a week. The stock market, which has been rather heavy of late, responded with generous gains. Traders who have had comparatively little to go by in the way of happenings which affect the market values, today had solid facts on which to base their operations. The day's occurrences touched the market directly at several points, and buying was carried on much more confidently. Union Pacific was raised 3 points above Saturday's close, United States Steel and several others 2 or more points, and virtually all the remaining stocks of prominence from 1 to 2 points.

It was assumed that the market at the outset would reflect the unexpectedly favorable bank statement for last November reported by the United States Steel Corporation. Opening gains, however, were small, and were not long maintained. Some stocks were depressed materially below the final prices of last week in a decline during the first hour, which was ascribed to the readiness of some traders to realize on advances and disappointment at the failure of United States Steel and other speculative leaders to advance more briskly. Before noon the character of the market changed again and during the remainder of the session prices were on a higher plane.

The bank statement and the steel figures were supplemented as market factors by the announcement of an advance in the price of copper, sales of which were quoted at 13¼ cents, the highest of the movement. The Euroopean demand was reported as especially heavy.

Of greater importance as market factors was the announcement that United States Steel had raised its price for wire and nails. Advances in prices of other steel products were talked of as not improbable, on account of the heavier volume of new orders. Since December the Steel Corporation's incoming business has increased further, being estimated today at 45,000 tons daily, which would place it at the largest figure in more than a year.

The especial strength of Union Pacific may be traced, in part, to the action of the commerce court in permanently restraining the interstate commerce commission from making effective the proposed reductions in intermountain freight rates.

All of the northwestern roads which are directly affected made good gains after announcement of this decision. The tenor of the report of the Hadley commission in respect to railroad securities was regarded as favorable from the stock market viewpoint. Another occurrence which helped the bulls was the refusal of the supreme court to interfere with the American Tobaco reorganization plan. American Tobaco rose 18 points on the "curb" and the bonds and preferred stock also advanced briskly.

The government's cotton crop estimate confirmed expectations of a yield exceeding all records. The report was one more of the day's happenings which helped to bring about a more cheerful sentiment.

Call loans were placed at 2½ per cent, but the ruling rate was 4½ per cent. Some money was loaned to German bankers, who bid 5½ to 6 per cent for accommodation over the end of the year. The demand from abroad, in connection with the year-end adjustment, is expected to become more urgent, owing to the disturbed conditions which have prevailed recently in European finances.

An abrupt rise of 2¾ points in Canadian Pacific shortly before the close was explained in the announcement that $18,000,000 of new stock was to be issued on terms which conferred valuable "rights" upin shareholders Great Northern ore certificates were the conspicuously weak securities. They gave way 2½ points to 34, the lowest price at which they ever sold.

The bond market closed firm after an early period of irregularity, with especial weakness in the Wabash issues. Total sales, par value, $4,859,000. United States bonds unchanged on call.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL THE MARKETS

LARGE RECEIPTS SENT WHEAT DOWN

Market Closed Three-Eighths to Three-Quarters Off. Corn Also Lower.

Chicago, December 11.—Big receipts northwest, both sides of the international line, exerted pressure today on the market for wheat. Largely as a result, the close was ⅜ to ¾ under Saturday night. Corn showed a net loss of ⅜ to ⅝@½ and oats a decline of ⅛ to ¼ cent. At the end of the day, hog products were down 5 to 10½ cents.

From the outset bears in the wheat pit had the advantage, being aided by the fact that less serious losses than existed were shown in today's crop advices from the Argentine. A more immediate and potent influence, however, developed in reports that Minneapolis and Duluth had arrivals totaling 990 cars against 751 a year ago. Moreover, Winnipeg sent word of 1,421 cars there, as compared with 426 the corresponding day last year. In this connection, the United States visible supply increase, although smaller than had been looked for, made a rather forcible contrast with a falling off twelve months back. Heavy rains beneficial for winter wheat in Kansas and Oklahoma formed another source of discomfort for the bulls. Besides, cash demand was slow and prices relatively weaker than for futures. Conflict in private dispatches from Buenos Ayres regarding weather conditions afforded ground for some recovery as trading approached the close. May fluctuated between 96¼@96⅜ and 97⅜, with the final tone firm but ⅛@⅝ sent down at 96⅞@97.

There was good commission buying, which kept corn strong. A little export business had an inspiring effect. The country movement was lighter than last week. May ranged from 62⅜@62½ to 63, closing firm ⅞ net higher at 62⅞. Cash grades were steady. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 70@71 for car lots.

Shorts did most of the buying in oats. This demand was sufficient to absorb surplus offerings. May ranged between 48⅝ and 48¼ with the close ⅛ up at 48¼@48⅝.

Some of the larger packers sold provisions through speculators and brokers. An additional weakening factor was the circumstance that western receipts of hogs were much heavier than a year ago. Pork closed 10 to 10@12½ and other products 5 to 7½@10 down.

14,885,000 BALES IS THE ESTIMATE GIVEN

Greatest Cotton Crop Record According to Government Figures.

Washington, December 11.—The greatest cotton crop in record, 14,885,000 bales, is the department of agriculture's official estimate of the country's total production this year. This is greater by 1,477,000 bales than the record crop of 1904.

Officials of the department of agriculture were not surprised at the size of the crop, as condition figures throughout the growing season indicated that the production would be large.

Every state in the cotton belt, except Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma, established new records for production.

The total production of cotton in the United States for the season of 1911-12 will amount to 7,121,713,000 pounds (not including linters), or 14,885,000 bales of 500 pounds, gross weight, according to the first official estimate of the size of the crop issued at 2 p. m. today, by the crop reporting board of the United States department of agriculture and made up from reports of the correspondents and agents of the bureau of statistics throughout the cotton belt.

Heretofore the record cotton crop was that of the year 1904, when 13,438,012 bales exclusive of linters, were grown. Other large crops were those of 1906, which was 13,273,809 bales, and 1908, when 13,241,799 bales were grown. In point of value, however, the crop of 1910, which was 11,608,616 bales, exclusive of linters, was the record one, the fiber being valued at $802,320,000 and the cotton seed at $142,860,000, a total of $963,180,000 as the aggregate value of the cotton crop of that year.

Conditions early in the growing season this year led to the belief that the crop would be one of record proportions. First estimates of the yield, based on the condition figures, placed the probable production well toward the figures of the biggest crops heretofore grown. The acreage on which cotton was planted this season was estimated by the department of agriculture to be 35,000,000 acres, a greater area than ever before planted to cotton in this country. This vast area exceeded the previous record of acreage by more than 2,500,000 acres, there having been planted 32,444,000 acres in 1908, and 32,403,000 acres last year. In the record production year of 1904 only 30,053,739 acres were planted.

Scorching hot and excessively dry weather during the middle of the summer caused considerable damage to cotton in many parts of the cotton belt. Later in the season weather conditions were distinctively favorable in most parts of the belt and the crop improved. The hot weather and drouth, however, were responsible for a smaller yield this year than experts early in the season predicted as a result of the record acreage and splendid growing conditions then prevailing. One result of the hot weather was that the crop matured about two weeks earlier than usual.

The estimated production by states, in 500-pound bales, exclusive of linters, with the acreage and yield comparisons for 1910 and the record years of 1906 and 1904 follows:

MISSIONARY TO CHINA BELIEVED TO BE DEAD

Nashville, Tenn., December 11.—In the Vine Street Christian church yesterday a letter was read from Will Hardy, the church's missionary at Batang, one of the most remote stations in the Chinese field, announcing that he and his companions were preparing to flee and would probably never reach civilization. The letter was written in October.

The congregation offered prayers for the party, though it is feared that they have since been killed. Batang is on the Thibet border. Young Hardy went out as a medical missionary a year ago. He is a son of Rev. W. J. Hardy.

WATER TO STAY IN RAIL STOCKS

Too Late Now to Squeeze it Out, Says Securities Commission.

Declares It Is Practically Impossible to Place Issues of Securities Under Federal Control—Publicity Favored as Cure for Stock Watering.

Washington, December 11.—The railroad securities commission, headed by President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale, has reported that it would be practically impossible at this time to place issues of railroad securities under federal control. The commission recommends that enforced publicity for all railroad financing is the most effective weapon against stock watering which the government has at its command.

A distinguished group of investigators was named by President Taft to co-operate with Professor Hadley. They were Frederick H. Judson, of St. Louis; Frederick Strauss, of New York; Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior, and Balthasar H. Meyer, a member of the interstate commerce commission.

The commission was created in 1910, when the senate refused to accept a house amendment to the pending railroad bill, providing that all future issue of stocks railroad securities be placed under the control of the interstate commerce commission. Many of the senate democrats opposed it as an invasion of states' rights. President Taft at the time told republican leaders the party was committed to such a measure, but when it appeared impossible to pass it, the president agreed to have the clause eliminated, with the understanding that a commission to study the subject would be allowed. This was done and the commission began work in the autumn of 1910. Public hearings were held and Chairman Hadley studied the problem abroad.

The commission's report is distinctly adverse to the legislation proposed in the railroad bill.

President Taft in transmitting the report to congress today, declared that he heartily concurred in the recommendations.

Conclusions of Commission.

The commission's principal conclusions are:

That any attempt by congress to adopt the policy of federal regulation to the exclusion of state regulation would be premature.

That for the present, state authorities should make a concerted effort to harmonize existing requirements.

That congress should prepare for the future by giving consideration to a federal incorporation act which would permit interstate railroads to exchange their state charters for national ones.

The commission takes the ground that constitutional questions involving the scope and extent of federal authority are unsettled and will remain so for some time, and that while such a condition exists, to superimpose federal regulation upon state regulation would add to the conflicts and complexities, which in the public interest should rather be diminished than increased.

"Unless the constitutional power of congress to regulate securities of interstate railroads is definitely established as being exclusive of state control, either the federal government and the states will come to a general understanding as to the principles to be adopted in the control of security issues, or the railroad systems will be given the opportunity to exchange their state charters for federal ones," says the report.

"Until such exclusive jurisdiction can be established, the creation of a separate administrative body subjecting the railroads to a new system of concurrent supervision, in addition to the many old ones which now exist does not seem just, expedient or economical."

Complete Publicity Favored.

For the present, the commission recommends that complete publicity be required to surround all issues of securities and that any interstate railroad issuing stocks and bonds be required to furnish to the interstate commerce commission a full statement of the details of the issue, the purposes for which the proceeds are to be used, and an accounting for the expenditures of such proceeds.

"Accurate knowledge of the facts surrounding the issue of securities, and the expenditure of the proceeds is the of most importance," the commission says. "It is the one thing upon which the federal government can effectively insist today; it is the fundamental thing which must serve as a basis for whatever regulation may be desirable in the future.

"If full publicity be given we shall also lessen the fraudulent creation of debt. It is the degree of publicity rather than the stringency of the law which gives to the people any real protection. A stringent law inadequately enforced and secretly evaded is the worst thing that can be possibly offered to the public, because it gives color to claims which have no foundation and fact."

Impossible to Scale Down Securities.

In determining the physical value of railroads in relation to their securities now outstanding, the commission puts aside as entirely out of the question any attempt to scale down outstanding securities, on the ground that constitutional difficulties, public expediency and confidence in American railroad investments would forbid it.

The commission feels that railroad development has gone so far and such a volume of securities has already been issued that the only questions of real importance are whether it is desirable for the federal government to regulate the issue of future securities, and, if so, to what extent and in what manner. The complex relations between securities already outstanding has made it impossible to treat the question of future regulation as it might have been treated if those securities were not already in existence.

In cases where it is found that the issued securities exceed the physical valuation, the commission is not in favor of forbidding further issue until the deficiency is made up, because the principle if generally applied might prevent railroads from securing capital necessary for the service of a community.

Physical Valuations.

By empowering the interstate commerce commission to enforce publicity and to make physical valuations, the commission believes there will be no necessity for a law to require approval in advance for issues of securities. Advance authorization, the commission holds, would tend to create on the part of the investing public, an impression of a guaranty or official recognition of values which no administrative authority could safely give. The commissioners do not believe that the cost of reproducing railroad properties, however carefully computed, is the sole element to be considered in determining the present value of a railroad, of that the outstanding securities should be made to conform to any arbitrary standard.

The commission believes that the amount and face value of outstanding securities has only an indirect effect upon the actual making of rates and that it should have little if any weight in their regulation.

The commission does not approve of any unqualified proposition to prohibit ownership of stock of one road by another. To do so, the report says, would involve too much disturbance of existing relations whatever may be the evils attendant upon such holdings. It is recommended, however, that wherever a group of men or companies has bought a majority of stock in a road they may be properly required to buy the minority at the same price.

THOUGHT DEAD ARE FOUND ALIVE

and plenty of light. We were endeavoring to reach the main entrance again when we were discovered by the mine rescue men about 8:15 o'clock tonight."

Briceville Wildly Excited.

Briceville became wildly excited when the news spread over the village that four men had been found alive. Almost every woman in town, it seems, who was not grieving for her certain dead, rushed to the mines in the hope that their loved ones might be among them. Strangely, the wives of none of the rescued men were there, some of them being ill and hysterical. The scenes at the homes when the men arrived were affecting.

The death list has increased to 28, five bodies were found in right entry No. 27, the rescuers being now at work with all their might exploring the entries on the left side, no one having been found alive in the right entries examined.

One of "Bill" Henderson's friends telephoned this afternoon to Clinton, Tenn., directing that a grave be dug for him in the old Henderson burying ground there. He hastily countermanded the order tonight, admitting that he had given it against the wishes of Mrs. Henderson, who had never despaired of seeing her husband and son alive.

A Day of Gloom.

A day more gloomy or more in keeping with the feelings of the surviving inhabitants of this stricken village would be difficult to imagine. A cold rain began falling just before daybreak and continued until late in the afternoon, converting the roads which comprise the streets of Briceville into mud puddles. From the little shacks in which the miners live came wailing sounds from women and children, thereby adding to the general gloom. For the most part, the women remained in their homes, but a few of them parade their grief through the village and stood in the rain outside the mine entrance, waiting for their dead to be brought forth.

The rescue work has gone relentlessly on since the explosion occurred early Saturday morning. Dr. J. A. Holmes, head of the United States bureau of mines, took personal charge for the government today, and directed his men into the unexplored recesses. Wearing oxygen helmets, they were able to penetrate to corners in which the miners themselves dared not venture for fear of the dread after-damp.

New Graveyard Established.

A new graveyard was established today at Laurel Branch, near here, to take care of the Cross Mountain dead. The graves are being dug in a circle, the plan being to eventually erect a monument in the center in memory of the explosion victims. Volunteers were called for today to perform the sexton's task and twelve responded. All afternoon they could be seen plying pick and shovel on the mountainside under an improvised shelter to protect them from the rain.

There was not enough work for the undertakers' corps to do, and, clad in oil cloth aprons, they presented a gruesome sight as they stood about the mine waiting for bodies to be brought forth.

The coal company is supplying the immediate needs of the stricken families, but later there will be need of funds to care for the widows and orphans. Indications are that there will be more than fifty of the former and about 160 of the latter. A Knoxville baker distributed 600 loaves of bread among the families today, and there was no shortage of food.

Auto Wraps in Big Request.

The demand for auto wraps has become so strong that many retail concerns have a special section reserved for garments of this nature and manufacturers give much attention to coats that are suitable for automobiling purposes, says The Dry Goods Economist. The first requisite is that they do not show the dirt, and, secondly, they must be strictly up-to-date. Loose coats are perferable for motoring, as they can be easily slipped on or off.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY
ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

The announcement yesterday of the sale of a lot fronting 90 feet on Luckie street just west of Forsyth street for approximately $100,000 was the most interesting development in realty circles for several days. D. W. Corey bought the property from W. Woods White, through Thomas J. Sheppard, of Cheatham Brothers' agency.

The property is on the south side of Luckie street, just opposite the Forsyth theater, 90 feet from the southwest corner of Luckie and Forsyth streets. With a frontage of 90 feet on Luckie street, it runs back to a depth of 74 feet. The property adjoins the property which is now being improved by the Realty Trust Company at the corner of Luckie and Forsyth streets.

Mr. Corey contemplates permanent improvement of the property at an early date, but has not yet announced the nature of the improvements.

Ike Minsk and Sam Woolf have sold to Hugh Richardson the northwest corner of Davis and Mitchell streets, a lot with a frontage of 80 feet, for $10,000.

Cleve R. Harris has leased to Perryman & Co. Nos. 14 and 16 North Forsyth street, for a term of ten years, the aggregate consideration for the entire term being $40,000.

The property consists of a building having three stories and a basement.

The lease was made through the renting department of Edwin P. Ansley's agency, and goes into effect January 1, 1912. The Perryman Company, however, will not move into the building at the time of the beginning of the lease, but will occupy their present quarters at No. 10 North Broad street for three years yet, and, in the meantime, sub-lease the Forsyth street place.

H. E. Watkins, of the renting department of the same agency, also announced that the Theatrical Club has leased the second floor of the uncompleted building which adjoins their present quarters for a period of two years. The lease begins as soon as the building is completed, which will be about December 15. It is the plan of the club, it is understood, to continue occupancy of their present quarters and enlarge them by opening and connecting the newly leased building.

The Theatrical Mechanical Club has leased the second floor of No. 62 North Forsyth street for a period of two years, from the same agency. A fuller account of this club and the lease is contained elsewhere in this paper.

Something of a flurry of excitement was caused Monday when it was announced that at the business session of the Atlanta Real Estate Men's Association, which will be held directly after their regular monthly banquet at Durand's cafe Friday evening at 6 o'clock, action will be taken to expel from the association two real estate firms upon charges of unprofessional practice. It is understood that a third firm escaped a like ordeal by resigning upon request. The other two, it is said, were given a like opportunity, but failed to avail themselves of it, and, in fact, did not even answer the letters requesting their resignation. The names of the firms are being withheld publication, pending next Friday's action.

This is the culmination of a fight for a higher standard of ideals and practice that has been going on in the association for some time. It was announced by the chairman of the application committee that the applications of several concerns for membership in the association had been declined recently. It was also said that applications of any other firms or agents not coming up to the full measure of the standard which the association is trying to set will be treated in a like manner in the future.

Next Friday evening's session, according to action taken at November's banquet, was to have been a business session for the purpose of creating an appraisement committee. It is understood that the step now under consideration had not at that time been brought up in any definite form.

East Lake Drive Completed.

Announcement was made Monday that the new East Lake drive, from Druid Hills to the Country Club at East Lake, is now complete in every detail.

The drive had been practically complete for months except for one or two places which were not in the best of condition.

The completion of the drive last Saturday, however, has made this road one of the most beautiful driveways in the country. Except for Springdale drive, it is said that there is probably not another highway in the south which can compare with it.

The road is a continuation of Ponce de Leon avenue to a point about a mile west of Decatur, where the road turns due south, crosses the Georgia railroad, passes through the town of Oakhurst, crossing the South Decatur car line at Oakview, and then goes straight to East Lake.

The road is practically dustless and is as smooth as asphalt pavement. It is built of macadam and tar-binder.

It is estimated that fully 5,000 automobiles passed over the new drive last Sunday.

the state committee, for whatever their motive or intentions might have been, it is absolutely certain that the rule was not made for the benefit of Governor Brown's candidacy.

Indebted to the People.

"All that Governor Brown and his friends could do was to accept the rules, although undemocratic, as laid down by the state committee. Governor Brown is indebted to the people of Georgia for his nomination and not to the state committee. He received more than a democratic majority of the unit votes.

"Mr. Arnold states that he failed to receive a majority of the votes cast. This is true, but in a three-cornered race if the popular vote plan had been adopted by Mr. Arnold and his committee the two highest would have necessarily had to run the race over. This plan was not adopted. Neither Governor Brown nor his friends had anything to do with it.

"Mr. Arnold also takes a rap at the 17,000 citizens that rebelled against the gag rule of a convention in which Mr. Arnold was himself one of the moving spirits. These citizens, feeling outraged, simply cast a complimentary vote for Governor Brown in order that they might enter their protest against Mr. Arnold's 'steam roller.' Many of them, and perhaps a majority of them, had voted with Mr. Arnold in the primary.

Why Did You Fail?

"Your committee threatened, if I remember correctly, to disfranchise these citizens. You had the power to do it. Why did you fail? Your failure to do so was equivalent to an indorsement and approval. It is too late to kick now.

"I judge from the tenor of Mr. Arnold's interview that he intends, if he can control the committee, to leave the county unit plan high and dry after this. There is as much fairness in recognizing a county as a unit in the state as a state in the union. I have no doubt that the system would have met the approval of my friend, Mr. Arnold, had his favorite been successful, but he failed, and Reuben must remember that he would have failed under any kind of a plan or system his committee might have adopted, whether popular vote, county unit vote, plurality or majority. He was a 'lost ball,' any way you take it. Mr. Arnold also raises the question as to the ability of the average citizen of Dawson county to cast his vote as intelligently as the average citizen of Fulton county. I fail to understand where there can be any distinction. Mr. Arnold may have reached his conclusions recently. He knows best about this.

Courtesy Would Have Helped.

"I grant you, Mr. Arnold, that if your committee should fail to call a convention that no attempt should be made to hold one. I would be unalterably opposed to it. I think, however, that your committee could have given the matter of calling a convetion for the purpose of outlining a party platform whatever consideration it deserved. I think you could have done this courteously and that without attempting to offer an insult to Governor Brown and his friends in Georgia, charging him with party disloyalty.

"Now, Reuben, if you let us vote on the presidential nomination it will be the first time you have laid down the gap for the people since you have been in office. We are all waiting and watching. Do the best you can for us until your time is out."

TEDDY'S SHADOW ON G. O. P. HORIZON

that Secretary Hilles and other supporters of President Taft had won a complete victory and that Colonel New undoubtedly would head the subcommittee on arrangements. It was also evident that the Taft forces would control the entire membership of the sub-committee.

Roosevelt Is Openly Advocated.

Only less interesting than the unlooked-for controversy over the control of the subcommittee in charge of the convention was the exploitation throughout the day of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt as the possible candidate for the presidential nomination. The advocacy of Colonel Roosevelt, but thinly veiled yesterday, was open and promiscuously proclaimed today. The advocates of Colonel Roosevelt's nomination apparently based their arguments in his behalf upon the fact that at no time had the former president announced that he would not accept the nomination if it were tendered to him. It was recognized that he would not openly be a candidate, they said, but they were busy sounding members of the national committee and other prominent republicans as to their sentiment in regard to "forcing" the nomination upon the colonel.

There were many who connected the open advocacy of Colonel Roosevelt's nomination with the opposition to naming a committee of arrangements dominated by administration men.

Hope of Roosevelt Enthusiasts.

It was apparent throughout the day that friends of Colonel Roosevelt were endeavoring in every possible way to postpone action by the national committee which would definitely commit anybody to any man's candidacy. The Roosevelt enthusiasts frankly stated their hope lay in working up a demand for Colonel Roosevelt to be expressed in the convention itself.

Friends of Colonel Roosevelt also declared today that they were making no attempt at this time to force the issue. Their object was, they said, to leave matters sufficiently open to permit of his candidacy at the psychological moment.

Many conferences were held during the day and continued until the white house dinner tonight, when President Taft was the host to a body far from united on the business which brought it to Washington. In the executive state dining room, however, it was realized that animosities would have to be laid aside, for the dinner was arranged in formal honor of the committee, the guests including both the ardent supporters and the lukewarm friends of the president.

Hitchcock Clashes With Taft's Man.

One of the most sensational features of the day's skirmishing was the fact that Secretary Hilles, who is the active leader of the Taft forces in the campaign for renomination of the president, and Postmaster General Hitchcock, who managed the president's campaign three years ago, seemingly were arrayed against each other. The rumors that the two were working at cross purposes flew thick and fast. Finally, Mr. Hitchcock issued a statement in denial, but it did not entirely set the reports at rest. Mr. Hitchcock's statement follows:

"Statements which would indicate that there is friction between Mr. Hilles and myself are absolutely unfounded. My resignation as chairman of the national committee was tendered in good faith on the day that I was confirmed as postmaster general, and from that time to this I have refrained from participation in the affairs of the committee. I have all that I can do at present to look after the business of my department, and do not wish to be drawn into any controversy respecting national politics."

Opposition to Taft in South.

Friends of President Taft entered upon the work of the day preliminary to the meeting tomorrow thoroughly confident that there would be no opposition to New. It was not until afternoon that they learned that the program arranged on Sunday was giving dissatisfaction. Strangely enough, the opposition came from members from the southern states, the section over which the administration was supposed to be in undisputed control.

Members of the committee from the southern states met early in the day, ostensibly to take measures of self-protection against any attempt in the next convention to reduce their representation. A motion was adopted authorizing General Powell Clayton, of Arkansas, who acted as chairman, to name a committee of five to devise the method and provide the sinews to fight any movement made to curtail the southern delegations. At the conference, also, E. C. Duncan, the member from North Carolina, was indorsed for membership of the executive committee.

Southern Republicans Bitter.

After this formal business had been transacted, several members made impassioned speeches advocating opposition to preferment for any position of power of a man who had been a member of a state delegation that had voted solidly in the convention of 1908 to reduce the representation of the southern states. It was recognized that Colonel New was meant by this characterization, although after the meeting several members blandly reported that New's name had not been mentioned at the conference, which probably was true.

No vote was taken in the southern conference, but soon after adjournment it began to be whispered about that Colonel New would be opposed by a large number of committeemen who had hitherto been counted for any man favored by the white house.

Following the announcement of the opposition to Colonel New among the southern membership of the committee several members openly advocated the retention by Vice Chairman John F. Hill, of Maine, who will be elected tomorrow as successor of former Chairman Hitchcock, of the honor of directing the convention arrangements.

Conference at White House.

It was reported that Mr. Hitchcok was a party to this plan, and it was openly stated by several southern members that Mr. Hitchcock was in sympathy with the action that had been taken by them.

On every side Mr. Hitchcock's name was coupled with the anti-New movement, and it was probably because of this the postmaster general issued his statement.

Several of the conferences were attended by Mr. Hitchcock, and at one, held at the white house, both the postmaster general and the secretary to the president were present. Among others who participated in the conference were Vice Chairman Hill, Senators Crane of Massachusetts and Penrose of Pennsylvania, Secretary Nagel, Arthur L. Vorys, of Ohio, and Secretary Heyward, of the national committee. Some members of the committee hoped that the white house conference would result in an agreement for the selection of Mr. Hill as chairman of the committee on arrangements, and to make Mr. New a member of the committee, but this hope was not realized.

Much Ill Feeling.

Considerable ill feeling was manifest late in the afternoon, and the executive committee of the national committee met to consider the situation. After much conferring, the executive committee adopted a resolution presented by former Governor Franklin Murphy, of New Jersey, who, although not a member, had been admitted to the conference, naming Mr. Hill, Charles F. Brooker, of Connecticut, and former Representative Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, a special committee to go to the white house to ascertain the wishes of President Taft.

Brooker and Lowden were known to be in favor of New and some of the latter's opponents went so far as to say that the committee had been "stacked" against the vice chairman. They said that if Brooker and Lowden urged the president openly to espouse the cause of New no alternative would be left Mr. Hill but to acquiesce. However, President Taft did not follow the course New's friends expected. He is said to have told the special committee that the question was one which the national committee must meet. That ended the parleying until after the dinner and of course, passed the whole situation over until tomorrow, although other conferences were expected to run into the morning hours.

Presidential Primaries.

The question of presidential preference primaries, so far as the national committee was concerned, practically was disposed of at the meeting of the executive committee late today. It was decided a resolution should be adopted giving to the six states which already have adopted primary laws the right to select by that method their delegates to the national convention. National Committeeman David Mulvane, of Kansas, suggested that the resolution restrict the privilege of primary selection to those six states. This action was opposed as impolitic and was not agreed to.

It was decided to cover all of the other states by a resolution providing that delegates should be elected in accordance with rules laid down by the various state committees. This solution was said to be satisfactory to the warring elements from Ohio, where State Chairman Walter Brown, opposed to President Taft, favored state primaries and National Committeeman Arthur I. Vorys, a Taft lieutenant, favored the selection of delegates by the state convention.

The executive committee being unable to finish its business tonight adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The national committee will meet at 11 a. m.

Chicago to Get Convention.

There seemed to be no question tonight but that Chicago would get the national convention and that it would be held the last week in June.

Some members of the national committee did not attend President Taft's dinner tonight. The most prominent of these was William L. Ward, of New York, who in his official declaration stated that he would be in the city only a short time.

Friends of Mr. Ward tonight, however, declared he had declined because he did not wish to commit himself to Mr. Taft's candidacy in any way.

John Hays Hammond tonight entertained at dinner a number of prominent members of the Young Men's Republican Clubs of various states. Following the dinner at the white house President Taft dropped in at Mr. Hammond's home to meet his guests.

$5,000 IS NEEDED TO FIGHT CHOLERA

The Disease Is Causing Vast Amount of Damage in State.

Hog cholera has become so scattered throughout the state, that State Veterinarian Peter E. Bahnsen, of the agricultural department, has applied to Governor John M. Slaton for the appropriation of $5,000 made by the last legislature for the purchase of hog cholera serum.

Dr. Bahnsen made some effort not long ago to secure the money but as the finances of the state were not in the best of condition and as it was thought that the disease would soon be checked it was decided to let the appropriation wait a little longer.

"We thought for a time we could get along without using the appropriation immediately," said Dr. Bahnsen, "but the disease has spread so rapidly that we are compelled to have the money in order to buy the hog cholera serum and fight its spread. The cholera is worse now than I have known it to be in years, it is killing hundreds of hogs all over the state and is spreading with such rapidity that the situation has become alarming."

Dr. Bahnsen conferred with Governor Slaton about the appropriation and the governor stated he thinks it probable the fund can be secured from the treasury at this time.

FIGHTING IN ILLINOIS FOR WOODROW WILSON

Friends Have Prepared to Open Headquarters in Few Days.

Chicago, December 11.—Governor Woodrow Wilson's presidential campaign was begun in Illinois today, when his friends announced a committee on organization and prepared to open headquarters here in a few days.

William C. Niblack, vice president of a trust company, is chairman of the organization committee, and Frank H. Jones, former assistant postmaster general, is at the head of the finance committee. The committee will, it is said, urge a presidential primary in this state.

Luna Park Scorched.

New York, December 11.—Fire which for a time threatened to burn out the heart of Luna park, the great show place of Coney Island, raged for an hour and a half late this afternoon, but was confined to the Luna Park restaurant and an amusement resort adjoining. Both these structures were practically destroyed at a loss estimated at $150,000.

Banker Is Arrested.

New York, December 11.—Herbert Theodore Jennings, president of the Mount Vernon (N. Y.) National bank, now in the hands of a receiver, was arrested this afternoon on an indictment returned by the federal grand jury, charging him with misapplying $20,000 of the bank's funds.

East Lake Drive

This road is now paved with a dustless macadam all the way from Ponce De Leon avenue through Druid Hills to the Country Club at East Lake.

It is one of the most attractive drives around Atlanta, and it is inevitable that property fronting on it will enhance rapidly in value.

The place to speculate is on or near the drive between Oakhurst and the Club. No outlying property has such a potential and pent-up value as this.

vice to modern teachers. Among other things, he advised them not to let their pupils get the idea that a higher education would EXEMPT them from work when they grow to manhood and womanhood.

He also said that it was the DUTY of teachers to make their pupils understand that A GOOD EDUCATION WOULD HELP THEM TO BE BETTER WORKERS.

So many pupils leave school with the idea that they should not do any work that requires physical endeavor. They want to fill positions of ease and comfort.

Many of them say—"I will be a great advertisement writer some day." Or, "I will be an advertising representative of some publication." Or, "I will go into the advertising agency business."

To the young man who wants to make advertising his lifework, let me say the first thing you want to get in your mind is that you will have to WORK HARD AND PERSISTENTLY to make any kind of a success.

The next thing to consider is—"Have you IMAGINATION?"

There is no use thinking about the advertising business if you do not possess it. But, coupled with imagination must be a very generous endowment of COMMON SENSE. This is an unusual combination.

You must have ENERGY, ENDURANCE, PATIENCE and a good disposition. You must have CREATIVE ABILITY. You must be able to suggest, to plan, to write. You must be accommodating, firm.

In fact, the diplomat, the merchant, the manufacturer, the salesman are all combined in the successful MODERN ADVERTISING MAN.

And last, but not least, all the qualifications I have enumerated must be fortified with a reputation for TRUTH and RELIABILITY.
